Fourth Warders Fix "Dead Lines" to Keep Out the "Black Tide"

Councilman Ashley Named President of Vigilance Committee to Move Negroes From Ward—To Use Peaceful Measures.

By the flickering light of an old-fashioned lantern and a single oil burner, 200 citizens of the fourth ward, including some of its most prominent citizens and the ward's entire delegation in general council, met last night in a school room of the North Boulevard schoolhouse and organized a citizens' vigilance committee, the purpose of which will be to oppose by a determined effort the further encroachment of negroes into the white residential sections of their ward.

Stirring speeches were made, which plainly denoted the attitude of the citizens of this community. It became known that last Friday night a committee of citizens notified four negro families who have recently moved into white sections of this community to move. Two of these families have acceded to their wishes, and, it is understood, that the others are preparing likewise.

Keep Back "Black Tide."

The meeting, as explained at the outset, was called for the purpose of devising peaceable means, if possible, of throwing back the "black tide" which is said to be creeping into the white sections and has caused dozens of white families in this section of the city to move from their homes, sacrificing their properties at low prices.

Claude Ashley, councilman from the ward, stated that organized resistance on the part of the whites had become necessary as the result of the stake supreme court having nullified the city of Atlanta's segregation ordinance, which made it unlawful for negroes to move into white communities.

"It is to be regretted that such vigorous action, as I believe will be necessary, has to be taken to maintain the superiority of our race in this community," said Councilman Ashley. "Such action would not be necessary had our supreme court nobly declared as the Kentucky supreme court did, in the test case of the Louisville segregation ordinance, 'that Atlanta had done well to pass such a segregation ordinance,' instead of nullifying it by constitutional process."

Ashley Named President.

At the close of his address, Councilman Ashley was made president of the organization.

Alderman Albert Thomson's name was suggested for secretary, as was L. C. Green's, a real estate agent. Both declined to run for the office. Harry Flynn was chosen to serve as secretary.

Councilman A. W. Farlinger, who had just come into the city on a train, at this point of the meeting walked into the room. Amid the cheers of the half-visible men, dimly seen in the shadows, he was greeted and a moment later elected as vice president of the organization. C. A. Tappan was chosen treasurer.

Councilmen Farlinger and Ashley proposed that a big rally meeting of the fourth ward citizens be held in the Sunday school room of the Grace Methodist church on Friday night, when the negroes would be given final warning not to exercise themselves of their constitutional privileges as set down by the supreme court of the state of Georgia, in nullifying, recently, the Atlanta segregation ordinance.

Ministers Are Present.

Many ministers attended the meeting. Dr. A. Little, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, declared that the time had now come for the citizens of the community to take action, and to take whatever action might be necessary to protect the ideals and happiness of their community.

Councilman Farlinger moved that Irwin street, on the south, and Fort street on the west, be re-established as "dead lines" between the white and negro settlements, and that the negroes who now live within these limits be given ample time to move, being made to fully understand the consequences provided they did not move.

An amicable settlement with the negroes by mutual conferences was urged by W. A. Featherstone, one of the officials of Grace Methodist church.

Fix "Dead Lines."

At this suggestion Councilman Farlinger moved that a committee of five be appointed to confer with leading negroes, the conference to be held before Friday night, and the committee to report the results of the conference to the mass meeting at the Grace Methodist church.

Councilman Ashley, as president, named the following citizens on this conference committee: Alderman Albert Thomson, Joseph A. Hill, W. S. Featherstone, W. A. Farlinger and Dr. A. A. Little.

Councilman Farlinger then moved that the president appoint a vigilance committee, composed of one citizen who resides on each block of the "dead lines" adopted by the meeting.

RUDYARD KIPLING MOURNS ONLY SON, KILLED BY GERMANS

London, October 6.—John Kipling, of the Irish Guards, only son of Rudyard Kipling, is reported in the latest casualty list as "missing, and believed to have been killed.'

Kipling was 18 years old. On account of his delicate health his parents were reluctant to allow him to enter the army, but his father eventually yielded.

In Formal Letter Count von Bernstorff Announces Germany Has Accepted Viewpoint of United States.

WAY AT LAST CLEARED FOR NOTE TO BRITAIN

Pressing for Modification of Orders in Council and Restrictions on American Trade—Washington Happy Over Outcome.

Washington, October 5.—Germany has acceded to the American demands for settlement of the Arabic case. The imperial government through its ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, disavows the sinking of the vessel, announces that it has so notified the submarine commander who made the attack, expresses regret for the loss of Ameriacn lives and agrees to pay an indemnity to the families of Americans lost.

Official Washington was both gratified and relieved by the diplomatic victory. The communication delivered to Secretary Lansing today by the ambassador pursuant to general instructions from his government spread absolute confidence that there would be no more submarine controversies between the United States and Germany, for the document reveals that stringent orders have been given to submarine commanders to prevent a recurrence of such incidents as the Arabic.

Since this case embraces the principles for which President Wilson contended in his notes following the torpedoing of the Lusitania and Falaba concessions made by Germany to the American viewpoint were generally regarded tonight as paving the way for amicable settlement of all the cases which have threatened severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries.

Count von Bernstorff left here tonight happy over the results of his work, expressing the confident hope that relations between Germany and the United States would continue to improve.

Now for Great Britain.

With settlement of the Arabic controversy the dispatch to Great Britain of the long delayed American note on interference with trade is expected within a few days. President Wilson has refused consistently to send this communication while the issues with Germany were pending because the Berlin government had, through its notes, given the impression that on the action which the United States took with one set of belligerents depended its own conformity to international law. As the issues with Germany appear now to be adjusting themselves, the president, it is known, feels free to press Great Britain for a modification of the orders in council and restrictions of American trade.

It was not until the German ambassador submitted his letter at nearly 1 o'clock today that the change in the relations between Germany and the United States became definite. Until that hour the suggestions which Count von Bernstorff had made were considered unsatisfactory. In New York last Saturday the ambassador had submitted a draft of a letter on the Arabic case, but since it did not include admission of liability and agreement to pay indemnity, its terms were not acceptable to either President Wilson or Secretary Lansing. Today he came to Washington at the request of Mr. Lansing. In a few minutes he learned of the American government's objections and in return gave oral assurances that these would be promptly overcome. Returning to the embassy the ambassador redrafted the letter originally delivered in New York and sent it by messenger to the state department.

Text of German Disavowal.

Secretary Lansing carried it to the white house and shortly afterward announced its text, which follows:

"My Dear Mr. Secretary: Prompted by the desire to reach a satisfactory agreement with regard to the Arabic incident, my government has given me the following instructions:

"The orders issued by his majesty, the emperor, to the commanders of the German submarines—of which I notified you on a previous occasion—has been made so stringent that the recurrence of incidents similar to the Arabic case is considered out of the question.

"According to the report of Commander Schneider, of the submarine which sank the Arabic, and his affidavits, as well as those of his men, Commander Schneider was convinced that the Arabic intended to ram the submarine.

"On the other hand, the imperial government does not doubt the good faith of the affidavit of the British officers of the Arabic, according to which the Arabic did not intend to ram the submarine. The attack of the submarine was undertaken against the instructions issued to the commander. The imperial government regrets and disavows this act and has notified Commander Schneider accordingly.

"Under these circumstances my government is prepared to pay an indemnity for American lives, which to its deep regret, have been lost on the Arabic. I am authorized to negotiate

BRAKES ARE FIXED TO CURB GAMBLING IN THE WAR STOCKS

Members of the New York Stock Exchange Take Action to Diminish the Riot of Speculation.

BANKS BECAME UNEASY IN REGARD TO MARKET

Wall Street Has Appeared as Pot of Gold at End of Rainbow and Has Been Crowded With Horde of Speculators in War Stocks.

New York, October 5.—Members of the New York stock exchange took action today to curb the nation-wide speculation in so-called war stocks whose rapidly soaring values have led a runaway market through million and million and a half share days.

Banks, trust companies and financial houses of New York, fearful of a sudden break, have set the financial brakes and applied pressure on stock exchange houses to diminish, if not entirely end, the riot of speculation. Many exchange houses responded to that pressure today by notifying their clients that they would have to double the amount of margins in these specialties. Heretofore the chief speculative stocks, with a few notable exceptions, have been carried on a 20-point margin.

Many buyers today were unable to comply with the demand for more margin and a wave of selling orders carried stocks down from 4 to 15 points. A recovery came later, but the close was off 3 to 10 points from the high level.

The stock exchange's governing committee decided that something should be done to curb speculation, and as the demand for more margin seemed to be sufficient for the first step, it concluded simply to sound a warning by calling the attention of all members to resolutions already in force.

Notice Sent to Members.

The following notice was sent to every holder of a seat:

"I am instructed to call the attention of members of the exchange to the following resolutions adopted by the governing committee, with the request that they particularly admonish their branch office managers to be constantly guided by said resolutions in the performance of their duties:

"That the taking or carrying of a speculative account or the making of a speculative transaction in which a clerk of the exchange, or of a member of the exchange, or of a bank, trust company, banker or insurance company, is directly or indirectly interested, unless the written consent of the employer has been first obtained, shall be deemed an act detrimental to the interest and welfare of the exchange.

"That every member of the exchange be required to use due diligence to learn the essential facts relating to every account accepted by himself or by his clerks or representatives, and also relating to the possible use of a name for the account other than that of the party interested.

"That the acceptance and carrying of an account for a customer, either a member or a non-member, without proper and adequate margin, may constitute an act detrimental to the interest and welfare of the exchange and the offending member may be proceeded against under section 8, of article XVII., of the constitution.'"

Banks Grew Uneasy.

Today's action neither was hasty nor unconsidered. For more than a week the banks have been somewhat uneasy over the market. For some time past Wall street has appeared as the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow which stretched over the entire country. Tales of fabulous riches to be made in stock market gambling have made the financial section the mecca of a horde of speculators from coast to coast.

Typical of a hundred others is the story of a man who came to Wall street four or five months ago with less than $1,000 and today is worth more than $100,000. Of the man who lost there is no story told, yet the records of brokers' offices show that he is in the great majority.

Speculation has been confined chiefly to the stocks of certain companies reported to have received enormous war orders. In most cases the amounts of war orders have been greatly exaggerated. Notable instance is the case of the American Car and Foundry company, whose stock fell fourteen points over night on a statement issued by its president denying that its war orders totaled between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 and setting forth the true amount, approximately $7,000,000.

Some Great Jumps.

Bethlehem Steel stands at the top of the speculative list. Last year it sold as low as a fraction above 26. Today it touched 400. Crucible Steel, selling today at 103, was sold for about a third of this five months ago. Westinghouse was up today to 137, a tremendous advance over its selling price of a few months ago. Incidentally dealings in Westinghouse, relatively inconsiderable six months ago, today topped the amount of United States Steel sold, the

Mother Recovers Two Sons Lost on Train Last Sunday

ROBERT AND PRYOR COUCH,
Restored to mother Tuesday after being lost while en route to Atlanta from Jacksonville, Fla.

Returned safe to their frantic mother's arms, late Monday night, the mysterious disappearance of Robert and Pryor Couch from a Seaboard Air Line train Saturday was cleared up, but another problem in the shape of identifying the well-dressed stranger responsible for the journey of the boys is now confronting private detectives of the railway.

The Couch boys were placed on the train at Jacksonville, Fla., Saturday morning by Professor Leach, principal of the school they had been attending in Florida. They were tagged to Atlanta and placed in charge of the conductor of the train.

Mysteriously Kidnaped.

When the train arrived in Atlanta Sunday morning and there were no boys on board an investigation revealed the fact that they had suddenly and mysteriously disappeared while en route to Atlanta.

Mrs. Couch, who lives at 176 South Pryor street, and is head milliner at the Fair Clothing store, was frantic over the affair. Jacksonville was wired by police authorities in Atlanta and a search by telegram was instituted in all towns between the Florida city and Atlanta.

Monday night a Louisville and Nashville train pulled into Atlanta at a late hour. Two well dressed little boys got off the train under the watchful eye of a conductor and a trainmaster. A policeman at the depot was told that the little fellows were Robert and Pryor Couch and wanted to find their mother in Atlanta.

Saw Story in Constitution.

The officer had read of their strange disappearance in The Constitution, and it was only the work of a few minutes for him to see them safely in their mother's arms.

In a perfectly matter-of-fact way Robert, the oldest boy, told his mother that he and his little brother were "just a-ridin'," when a nice-looking man, who was mighty jolly and laughing all the time, sat down with them and started talking about riding on the train.

Pryor told his mother that they talked to the man a long time, and he had told them they could get to their mother a lot quicker by getting off at a station with him.

They got off the train and just where they went the boys could not say. They traveled all the time they were being searched for in Atlanta, and according to their statements, were well treated.

The boys were sent to the Convent of the Immaculate Conception for safekeeping.

FATHER LEADS IN RAID; SEES HIS SON ARRESTED

J. B. Daniel, Contractor, Says His Son Was Being Ruined at Houston Street House.

A sensational raid of an alleged gambling den at 24 Houston street, culminating in the arrest of eight men, and at the instigation of J. B. Daniel, prominent contractor living at 556 Ponce de Leon avenue, father of one of them, was staged shortly after 10 o'clock Tuesday night by Detectives Burnett, Maddox, Moon and Wagner.

The eight were registered as J. M. Daniel, aged 28, 556 Ponce de Leon avenue; Pat Williams, aged 32, a salesman living at 362 South Pryor street; R. F. Ware, aged 22, a salesman living at 24 Houston street; W. E. Walker, aged 23, a salesman living at 580 Ponce de Leon avenue; R. D. Moss, aged 40, agent, 24 Houston street; J. M. Lane, aged 35, an agent, living at 227 Courtland street; J. A. Marks, aged 25, a contractor, living at 24 Houston street, and J. R. MacEachron, aged 42, an architect, living at the Aragon hotel.

According to the detectives, they had been told by Mr. Daniel there was a gambling den being run at 24 Houston street. He said that his son had been going there, and was being ruined by the associations.

They went to the Houston street address shortly before 10 o'clock last night and after an investigation found the eight men there. They stated to a reporter for The Constitution that they had enough evidence to convict Marks of running a gambling house and the others of gaming.

Charges of disorderly conduct were booked against the eight.

Just as the detectives were walking into the station sergeant's office at headquarters young Daniel broke into a tirade against his father, stating that he didn't want him to make bond for him or try and get him out.

He stated that he didn't do anything and had no home.

It was at that juncture that Mr. Daniel stated that he was going to quit work, if necessary, and give up everything until he had hounded the alleged gamblers into police court and had a sentence imposed upon them.

"I am not going to stop until I see that business of ruining young boys stopped," stated Mr. Daniel, "and I am going to start by saving my own boy first. I am going after them if it takes me ten years."

Later in the evening Mr. Daniel signed a bond of $100 for his son but the latter refused to come out of his cell and was left in the station house.

According to the detectives the house at 24 Houston street has been reported to them a number of times as being a gambling den, although up until the time they were approached by Mr. Daniel they did not have sufficient evidence to warrant a more thorough investigation.

Several packs of cards were found at the house by detectives, who state that they are satisfied they have made an important raid.

The Houston street residence was raided several months ago at which time gambling paraphernalia and several men said to have been engaged in using it, were taken to headquarters.

Detectives state that Marks was the proprietor of the house at that time.

It was principally against him that Mr. Daniel's attack was made at the station house, according to the latter.

All the men but Marks were released under bonds of $100. Marks made a $200 bond.

They will all appear before Recorder Johnson at 3:30 this afternoon.

Lynchers Balked For Second Time By Sheriff's Wife

Champ Clark and Son Arrived With Posse After Mrs. Hawkins Had Saved Negro From Mob.

Bowling Green, Mo., October 5.—For the second time Mrs. W. B. Hawkins, wife of the sheriff of Pike county, saved the life of Harrison Rose, a negro prisoner charged with murder, by parleying with a mob that had invaded the Pike county jail at 1 o'clock this morning while the sheriff formed a posse of citizens.

The posse of fifty armed men, among whom were Champ Clark and his son, Bennett, arrived at the jail a few minutes after the mob had fled. A month ago the sheriff's wife similarly held off a mob until the mayor and prosecuting attorney arrived. Rose, the negro, is charged with stabbing a farmer to death with a pitchfork.

Last midnight the mob called on Sheriff Hawkins to surrender Rose, and when he refused they battered down the outer doors. While two held the sheriff, others held revolvers to his forehead and commanded him to tell where he had hidden the keys to Rose's cell. While they were pounding on the inner jail door with sledge hammers the sheriff escaped and gave the alarm.

Meanwhile other members of the mob first begged and then commanded the sheriff's wife to produce the keys, but she refused. The mob fled in automobiles when lookouts gave alarm of the posse's approach.

PARLIAMENT GOES WITH VENIZELOS, BUT KING HALTS

As a Result Greece Is Now Central Point of the Storm That Threatens to Break Over the Balkans.

ADVOCATES OF GERMANY SCORED BY VENIZELOS

Premier Tells Deputies Certain Greek Editors Have Sold Honor to the German Propagandists — Deputies Vote Confidence in Venizelos.

London October 5.—Greece is now the central point of the storm likely to break over the Balkans at any moment.

The Greek premier, Eleutherios Venizelos, has carried his policies through the Greek chamber with a majority of forty, some members not voting, but Havas' Athens correspondent is authority for the announcement that Venizelos later resigned because King Constantine informed him that he was unable to support the policy of his ministry.

The French have landed seventy thousand troops at Saloniki. The entente powers previously had notified the Greek government of this intention, and while the government made a formal protest no impediments were put in the way.

Replying to an interpellation respecting the occupation of Saloniki, Premier Venizelos said: "They (the entente powers) offer Serbia, Greece's ally, succor in the event of circumstances which would require Greece herself, under her alliance, to give Serbia help."

KING DISAGREES WITH VENIZELOS.

Paris, October 6.—An Athens dispatch to the Havas agency says:

"Premier Venizelos has resigned, the king having informed him that he was unable to support the policy of his ministry."

GREEK CONGRESS SUPPORTS VENIZELOS.

Athens, October 5.—(Via London.)—After Premier Venizelos had explained to the embassy of deputies the circumstances connected with the landing of allied troops at Saloniki the chamber passed a vote of confidence in the government. The vote was 142 to 102, with 13 members not voting.

The opposition leaders attacked the premier bitterly. They accused him of unnecessarily leading the country into the war on the side of the allies.

The chamber was in session all night and adjourned at 4:30 o'clock this morning.

Premier Venizelos accused the opposition press of "selling its honor to German propagandists." Representatives of the opposition journals in the press gallery arose and attempted to file out in protest. They were prevented from leaving by a crowd which massed behind the press boxes, and were compelled to stand there, the target of hisses and catcalls from the crowded galleries and the floor of the chamber.

Premier Venizelos won a triumph, notwithstanding the most determined attacks of the opposition, which protested "in the name of Hellenism," against the occupation of Greek territory by foreign troops. The premier did not hesitate to accept the challenge. He gave a frank exposition of the attitude of the government, after which he invited fullest discussion of the foreign policy.

"Some time has passed since the entente powers have made requests of Greece," he said. "Today they ask nothing but this—they who offer Serbia, Greece's ally, succor in the event of circumstances, which would require Greece herself, under the alliance, to give Serbia help.

"Great nations may with impunity treat treaties as scraps of paper. For smaller countries such a policy would be suicidal."

The wildest disorder broke out. The premier succeeded in dominating the situation, his voice rising above the tumult and the clang of the bell. He cried: "We have a treaty with Serbia. If we are honest we will leave nothing undone to insure its fulfillment in letter and spirit. Only if we are rogues may we find excuses to avoid our obligations."

KING AND PREMIER IN LONG STRUGGLE.

Athens, Thursday, September 30.—(Via Rome, October 5, to Paris.—Delayed in Transmission.)—Greece is able to put 180,000 men, fully equipped, in the field. Although the mobilization, which includes men up to 42 years of age, probably will call for 300,000 troops, those over the 180,000 cannot be armed. It is said the government has sufficient funds to continue on a war footing for one month. The problem therefore facing Premier Venizelos is the obtaining of money from the triple entent powers.

Mobilization will be completed Sunday night (October 3).

The signing of the mobilization order created general relief here. It was considered an extraordinary triumph for Premier Venizelos, who is known

CONSTANTINOPLE DANGLED AS BAIT BEFORE BULGARS

Teutons Also After What Remains of European Turkey to Induce Bulgaria to Aid in Effort to Smash Serbia.

ALLIES ARE PREPARED TO MEET BULGAR MOVE

Bulgaria, However, Hesitates, and Has Not Yet Decided on Answer to Russian Ultimatum — Strong Pro-Russian Party in Bulgaria.

Athens, October 5.—(Via Paris, October 6.)—Premier Radoslavoff, of Bulgaria, has assured the Greek minister at Sofia that Bulgaria will not attack Serbia unless aggressive action against her first is taken by Austria and Germany, in which case Bulgaria will be obliged to act against her neighbor.

London, October 5.—Russia's ultimatum to Bulgaria expired at 4 o'clock this afternoon, but up to a late hour tonight, so far as known in London, no answer had been received and none was expected.

It is taken for granted here that King Ferdinand and his ministers are committed definitely to the Germanic allies and in return for territory to be ceded after the war—perhaps some ports, including Constantinople and all that remains of European Turkey—has undertaken to assist actively in operations against Serbia, thus hoping to open the way to the Sea of Marmora for the Austro-German army.

The entente powers, in this belief, have landed or are landing a force at Saloniki to protect the main railway through Serbia and Greece, and to give what assistance it can to the Balkan allies, should they be attacked by Bulgaria. This infringement of Greek neutrality has brought forth a formal protest from the Greek government, but, in the words of one correspondent, it "is being winked at" by most of the people of Greece.

The next move devolves on Bulgaria and as soon as she moves, Anglo-French troops being mobilized, will be put in motion, while the fleets in the Black sea and the Aegean will assume their roles.

The Bulgarian premier, M. Radoslavoff, has declared, according to a Berlin newspaper: "We confront war and must defend our national interests. We must wrest from our enemies everything they took from us two years ago."

General Savoff, the former Bulgarian minister of war, is quoted as saying: "Every Bulgarian who breaks away from Russia commits an act of treason toward his country."

BULGARS DISCUSS RUSS ULTIMATUM.

London, October 6.—The crown council of Bulgaria, says a Geneva dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph, spent several hours discussing the Russian ultimatum, but arrived at no decision.

The same authority declares that General Savoff, former minister of war and former commander-in-chief of the Bulgarian army, in concluding a thrilling speech, said:

"Every Bulgarian who breaks away from Russia commits an act of treason toward his country."

Berlin, October 5.—(Via Wireless to Tuckerton.)—A dispatch to The Lokal Anzeiger from Budapest, given out today by the Overseas News Agency, says the Bulgarian premier, M. Radoslavoff, when receiving the delegates of the Stambouloff and Ghenadiev parties at Sofia, said:

C. F. von HERRMANN, Section Director.

"Bulgaria is justified in the hope that the situation will be more advantageous than heretofore. Events coming in the near future promise favorable results. Bulgaria will extend her frontiers toward the northwest and the south.

"Our relations with Rumania are cordial. The conflict between Rumania and the central powers already has been settled. Rumania will be neutral during the whole duration of the offensive of the central powers against Serbia, even if new complications arise in the Balkans. The Rumanian government has declared that it is disinterested as to Serbia. Greece will maintain the same attitude during the offensive of the central powers."

When asked if Bulgaria's mobilization was meant only for an armed defense of neutrality, Premier Radoslavoff is quoted as having answered that since the order of mobilization the government had addressed a circular telegram to the foreign representatives, stating that Bulgaria was acting in the interests of the defense of Bulgarian rights and independence. The premier added the situation of Bulgaria and her cabinet did not make it necessary for her to search for pretexts.

The Lokal Anzieger's correspondent also sends the following from The Narodni Prava, the official organ of the government at Sofia:

"Everybody can see that the days of the most serious importance will come. Everybody shall be ready to sacrifice what is dearest to him. If everybody does his duty Bulgaria will be great and powerful."

A dispatch from Sofia dated October 4 to The Teitung Am Mitag says: "Premier Radoslavoff, of Bulgaria, today made the following declaration to representatives of the government parties:

"'We confront war and must defend our national interests. We must wrest from enemies everything they took from us two years ago and get satisfaction for every insult.'"

London, October 5.—"It is Russia which has precipitated the trouble in the Balkans by insisting that a handful of German officers in civilian dress be expelled from Bulgaria," was the Bulgarian legation's comment on the situation to the Associated Press today.

The legation took the stand that Bulgaria was not the aggressor, and if a hostile act had been committed it was not Bulgaria that had committed it.

"No preparations have been made for closing the legation here," it was added, "and none will be until a notification by the British government necessitates such a step.

BULGARIA WARNED BY RUMANIA.

Paris, October 5.—Premier Bratiano, of Rumania, already has twice informed Bulgaria that the latter's mobilization is regarded by the Bucharest government as an unfriendly act, says The Matin. The newspaper adds:

"Rumania, from a military point of view, is ready for any eventuality, thanks to the blunder on the part of Austria-Hungary, who a month ago closed the frontier which gave Rumania the required pretext for concentrating troops. Rumania thus is safe from all surprise attacks."

Milan, October 5—(Via Paris.)—The hour has not arrived for Rumania to enter the war, in the opinion of Premier Bratiano, expressed to a deputation of parliamentary delegates of the opposition, says a Bucharest dispatch to The Secolo.

The opposition petitioned the premier to put an end to pro-German propaganda and order the mobilization of the Rumanian army. In reply M. Bratiano said:

"Acceptance of your demands would mean that the hour had struck for Rumania to join the war. The government is not of the same opinion. It is impossible to give the reasons now, but the vital interests of the nation demand that the government shall have the full and unequivocal confidence of parliament."

Premier Bratiano's views were echoed by Alexander Marghiloman, leader of the conservatives, in an address at the opening of a political club when he declared "Rumania must remain neutral."

SERBIAN ARMY WELL PREPARED.

Nish, Serbia, October 5.—(Via London.)—Close observers of the Balkan situation are of the opinion today that if Bulgaria does not at once dismiss the German officers who have been brought into the country to take part in Bulgaria's threatened military operations an extension of the war in the Balkans is inevitable.

Russia's ultimatum to Bulgaria is regarded here as having brought this situation to a head.

The arrival here in a few days is expected of the first detachments of troops of the quadruple entente.

The Serbian army is declared to be better prepared than ever to go into action. The entire people is indulging in enthusiastic manifestations of its purpose to defend the rights and integrity of the country.

BULGARIA IN PACT WITH TEUTON POWERS.

Milan, October 5.—(Via Paris.)—A military convention was signed between Bulgaria, Germany and Austria some time ago, according to a Sofia dispatch to The Corriere Della Seba.

By the terms of this treaty, the dispatch asserts, the Bulgarian army is bound to attack Serbia with six divisions in the Nigh-Pirot section, and to send Macedonian troops to Vardar to destroy railroad communication with Saloniki, thus delaying the allies in their efforts to aid Serbia.

The opposition Bulgarian leaders, Mm. Chenadieff, Malinoff and Giechoff, after having gone so far as to threaten King Ferdinand because of his stand in favor of Germany and Austria, are reported to have changed front completely, and now proclaim that the nation is united. Bands of students parade the streets of Sofia singing alternately the Bulgarian, German and Austrian national anthems.

CONSTANTINOPLE SOLD TO BULGARIA.

Paris, October 5.—General Mehmed Cherif Pasha, one of the leaders of the Radical Turk party, writing in The Matin, affirms that the Young Turks have "sold Constantinople to Bulgaria, with the pledge of receiving in exchange Russia's Asiatic possessions, Egypt and all of North Africa, always assuming, of course, that Germany and her allies defeat the quadruple entente powers."

Cherif Pasha points out that if this program should be carried through successfully the greater portion of the Mussulman would come under Turkish domination. He also asserts that it is the bone of fulfilling his ambitious dream of seeing himself crowned in the Mosque of San Sofia that has led King Ferdinand to raise his arms against Russia, France and Great Britain.

OFFERS TO BULGARIA WITHDRAWN BY ALLIES.

London, October 5.—"In consequence of the repeated assertion of Germans in Athens that the allies contemplated landing at Saloniki to hand the place over to Bulgaria," says Reuter's Telegram company, "the entente powers addressed a communication to the Greek government stating that the proposed landing was most friendly in its purpose and intended to help Greece and Serbia in case of attack.

"At the same time the powers informed the Hellenic government that the offers made to Bulgaria on condition that she join the allies had been withdrawn because Bulgaria not only had not answered the entente powers' note, but had taken action which had occasioned the present crisis."

PARLIAMENT GOES WITH VENIZELOS

to have had a long struggle with King Constantine before the monarch would yield to the premier's wishes.

Crowds gathered before the foreign office and the newspaper bulletin boards today while M. Venizelos was in conference with the king. The people showed an ugly temper when rumors of a resignation of the cabinet were circulated.

A curious and disconcerting feature of the Greek mobilization is the ignorance of the mobilized men as to their destination or the purpose for which they were called to the colors. The newspapers which usually indulge in the freest expression of opinion are generally silent respecting the fate of the Serbian-Greek treaty of alliance, which the king all along has maintained was abrogated by the Serbians owing to their concessions to Bulgaria and the effectiveness of which today is the key to the future action of Greece.

A story generally current in Athens and widely accepted as illustrating the existing situation is that Premier Venizelos at his conference with King Constantine pleaded that the Serbian alliance must be observed if for no reason than a means of defense against Bulgaria.

A close friend of King Constantine is authority for the statement that the king in reply exhibited a telegram from the German emperor guaranteeing that Greece would not be attacked by Bulgaria if she remained neutral and that the premier said:

"Does your majesty consider the word of the man whose troops invaded Belgium sufficient protection for Greece?"

70,000 FRENCH TROOPS LAND AT SALONIKI.

Athens, Sunday, October 3.—(Via Paris, October 5.—Delayed in transmission.)—The French troops, landing from five transports at Saloniki, Greece, consist of 70,000 men. They will proceed along the Guevgheli-Uskup railroad to guard the line.

Paris, October 5.—France notified Greece on the arrival of the first detachment of French troops at Saloniki that they were going to help Serbia. Premier Venizelos replied, protesting against the prospect of foreign troops passing through Greek territory, on the ground that it violated Greek neutrality.

The allied governments made preparations and gave the necessary orders for the landing of the troops several days ago. Previously they had entered into negotiations with the Greek government, which, being still neutral, made a formal protest, as it was obliged to do. At the same time the French officers were given every freedom to prepare for the landing.

with you about the amount of this indemnity.

"I remain, my dear Mr. Lansing, yours very sincerely,

"(Signed) J. von BERNSTORFF."

Bernstorff Had Full Power.

The promptness with which Count von Bernstorff altered the original draft of the letter demonstrated that he had been empowered to negotiate a complete settlement of the case, and it was assumed that he naturally did not finally accede until the American government made known its unalterable determination not to relinquish any of its demands.

Secretary Lansing made no comment on the ambassador's letter except to remark that it spoke for itself. He was much pleased over the conclusion of the case because since the sinking of the Arabic he inaugurated the idea of personal negotiations in Washington. This method of exchanging views was welcomed by Count von Bernstorff, too, particularly as he has had no means of direct communication with his government. To this lack of communication has been attributed much of the ill-feeling that characterized the earlier stages of the submarine controversy.

Today's events spread satisfaction everywhere, not only at the white house and state department, but the German embassy as well. The recent critical stage of the netgotiations which threatened rupture of diplomatic relations had raised to the keenest point the tension at the embassy. "His excellency is contented," was the comment that ran from the porter's lodge to the chancellory when the ambassador returned with the announcement that the United States government was satisfied. The smiling faces of the embassy's personnel, busy preparing for the return of the staff from summer quarters a fortnight hence, reflected the spirit displayed by their chief.

Victory for United States.

"It is a diplomatic victory for the United States," the ambassador remarked to a friend, "but credit must be given to Germany, I believe, for nobly accepting the word of the British officers that they did not intend to ram the submarine."

This point, it was learned, at one time threatened to interrupt the proceedings, as the German government at first wished to arbitrate the conflicting evidence.

BRAKES ARE FIXED TO CURB GAMBLING

shares of the former which changed hands today amounting to 118,500.

To discourage speculation many financial houses within the past week have cut in half the sums they had advanced on certain war specialties and thrown out others altogether. For weeks past there have been frequent additions to the string of conservative brokers who have refused to buy war stocks for their clients. In addition there are many more brokers who will trade in such stocks only for cash.

So hollow and nervous has been the market during the past few million-share days, due almost entirely to speculation in the war stocks, that it has responded violently even to rumors of bad news. An unconfirmed report today, for instance, that an American warship had hit a mine scattered values in these specialties.

A continuance of this condition, it is feared, may result in a general collapse which would carry down stable investment values and it is to avoid this that today's action was taken and other action contemplated.

To Open Griffin Movie.

Griffin, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—A. Samuels, of Atlanta, was in the city today and closed the contract for the lease of a building for a modern new picture showhouse, the approximate cost of which will be about $15,000.

ARMIES OF RUSSIA BEGIN OFFENSIVE ON A WIDE FRONT

From Riga to the Southeast of Vilna the Czar's Troops Are in Strong Drive Against the Germans.

London, October 5.—Russia, whose armies for five months have been retiring, has begun an energetic offensive along a wide front from Riga to southeast of Vilna, and, according to reports, has met with considerable success. This is denied by Berlin, which says that all Russian attacks have been repulsed.

In the west the big guns again have undertaken the task of attempting to level the German entrenchments, presumably in prparation for a continuation of the attacks which proved successful in Artois and Champagne. In some sectors there has been infantry fighting in which a trench, or a few yards of a trench, changed hands, this being particularly the case in the areas where the allies have made their gains and where the Germans are trying to win back lost ground.

The British fleet, too, is bombarding German positions on the coast of Belgium.

Loss of the Hohenzollern redoubt near La Bassee, as announced yesterday by Field Marshal French, was a keen disappointment to England. It is assumed the British troops, after their rush forward over a comparatively wide front, did not have sufficient time to consolidate this difficult position. The British commander's admission of the loss was tempered with the statement that German counter attacks had been beaten off along the remainder of the British front.

GAINS CLAIMED BY THE RUSSIANS.

Petrograd, October 5.—(Via London, October 6.)—The following official communication from general headquarters was issued tonight:

"There have been several engagements on the Riga front. North of Birshallen our troops occupied a portion of the German trenches. The fighting continues along the lines of Lakes Demmen, Dreswiaty, Medziol and Vichnev.

"In the region of Smorgon and further south, as well as on the upper Niemen, in the neighborhood of the village of Deliatitchi there have been continual skirmishes with the enemy, who is endeavoring, but unsuccessfully, to advance in an eastern direction.

"South of the Pripet, after engagements on the middle Styr, in the zone of the Kovel-Sarny railway, our troops occupied the villages of Voulk, Kollouzskais, Optovo, Voltchitzke and Medvieshka. In some places the enemy retired in disorder."

ARTILLERY DUELS ON WEST FRONT.

Paris, October 5.—Tonight's statement from the war office reads:

"A bombardment of a somewhat violent nature occurred on all sides to the north of La Scarpé and to the east of Arras. There was trench fighting with grenades and bombs in the sectors of Lihons and Andechy.

"In Champagne the enemy continued with the aid of asphyxiating shells the bombardment of regions in the rear of our new front, to the south of the Navarin farm and in the environs of Souain. Our artillery responded very energetically against the German trenches and works.

"The artillery action was almost continuous in the Argonne, in the sector from Houyette to Les Eparges, in the forest of Apremont and in Lorraine, near Moncel, Arracourt and Ancerviller.

"On the evening of October 4 the enemy attempted a sudden stroke against our posts to the east of Orbey, in the Vosges, but was completely repulsed."

The Belgian official communication reads:

"There has been slight activity by the artillery of the enemy along our front."

The communication issued in the afternoon follows:

"In Artois there was yesterday a fairly violent bombardment, both sides taking part, along the entire front to the north of La Scarpe. There was also fighting with bombs and torpedoes in the sectors of Quennevieres and Vie-Sur-Piune and on the plateau of Nouvron.

"In the Champagne district there has been a continuance of the artillery exchanges, particularly in the region of Epine de Vedegranges, near the Navarin farm, and in the vicinity of Butte de Jouain.

"In the Argonne district there has been fighting from trench to trench with hand grenades and bombs at Courtes Chausness and at La Fille Morte.

"To the north of Verdun, in the suburbs of Ornes, French artillery was successful in reaching a German troop train and causing a very violent explosion.

"There is nothing to report on the remainder of the front.

"One of our aerial squadrons has thrown down some 50 shells on the railroad station at Biaches, near Peronne."

GERMANS REPULSE BRITISH ATTACKS.

Berlin, October 5.—(Via London.)—The British attack on the German fortifications north of Loos has been repulsed again. The war office announced today that the efforts of the British were fruitless and that they sustained considerable losses.

The statement follows:

"A British hand grenade attack on the fortifications north of Loos was again repulsed. During fruitless attacks on these fortifications, the British left more than eighty prisoners, as well as two mine throwers, in our hands, in addition to their very considerable losses in killed or injured.

"A section of a trench which had been occupied by the French on the hill northwest of Givenchy was recaptured yesterday. Four machine guns were taken.

"In the Champagne the enemy directed strong artillery fire on the position northwest of Souain. When the intentions of the enemy to make an attack could be observed our artillery fire prevented the enemy from advancing. At Vauquois we forestalled the enemy with our mining operation. Numerous positions of the enemy were destroyed.

"Aviators of the enemy dropped bombs on the village of Blache St. Vaast, northeast of Arras. One inhabitant was killed. Otherwise no damage was done.

"Eastern theater of war:

"Army group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg: After their defeat on October 3 the Russians yesterday repeated their attacks on our positions with weak forces which were repulsed easily.

"There is nothing to report concerning the other army groups."

GERMANS EXPECT ATTACKS TO CONTINUE.

Berlin, October 5.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—Although one of the allied armies participating in the heavy attack of the allies on the western front has already been annihilated, says Major Moraht in an article in the Tageblatt reviewing the militaty situation, other armies remain and he does not consider the offensive movement entirely at an end. The Overseas agncy, which summarizes the review, says:

"Major Moraht states that General Joffre's army order showed that the French government felt the necessity of acting; that the morale of the French troops was a subject of concern, and that therefore the forces that were to move to the attack were told that the great offensive movement would end the war at once. As a matter of fact, he points out the attack did not break through to the open, but was stopped on the second line.

"Nevertheless, he believes as the enemy notwithstanding the heavy losses, still has large forces available, it is not to be expected that the attack is as yet entirely terminated."

DR. DUMBA HAS SAILED UNDER SAFE CONDUCT

Discredited Austrian Ambassador Quits United States. Bears No Ill Will.

New York, October 5.—Dr. Constantin T. Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador to Washington, who was recalled at the request of President Wilson, sailed with his wife for home today on the Holland-America Liner Nieuw Amsterdam.

Dr. Dumba sailed under a safe conduct arrangement made by the state department. The Nieuw Amsterdam will touch at Falmouth, England, and then proceed to Rotterdam. From the latter port Dr. Dumba will go at once to Vienna.

Mrs. Dumba reached the dock about twenty minutes before her husband and immediately boarded the ship. Dr. Dumba was accompanied by Prince Hohenlohe-Schillingfuerst, the Austrian embassy attache. When the former ambassador stepped from a taxicab he was surrounded by newspaper men. He readily agreed to pose for photographs.

Dr. Dumba said:

"I bear no ill will toward this country, nor its people. I am deeply sorry to leave at the present time, for I have made many friends here, and I had hoped to stay longer to see more of the country and its people. That is all."

Thirty or more persons were at the pier to bid farewell to Dr. Dumba.

The recall of Dr. Dumba was due to the seizure by agents of the British government of messages from the ambassador to his government which had been carried across the ocean by James F. J. Archibald, an American. This took place early last month. Copies of the dispatches were communicated by the British government to the United States, and on September 9 the secretary of state announced that he had instructed the American ambassador at Vienna to deliver a note to Austria notifying that country that Dr. Dumba was no longer acceptable as an ambassador. In the note to Austria, Secretary Lansing stated that Dr. Dumba admitted that he proposed to his government plans to instigate strikes in American manufacturing plants engaged in the production of munitions of war, and that he employed Archibald to bear official dispatches to the Austrian government. This latter action was stigmatized by Mr. Lansing as a "flagrant violation of diplomatic propriety."

Ten days later Dr. Dumba sent a note to Mr. Lansing denying that his proposal to interfere with the manufacture of war munitions was an intrusion in the domestic affairs of this country, or that his employment of Mr. Archibald as a messenger was improper. At the request of the Austrian government the United States arranged with the British government for safe conduct for Dr. Dumba on his homeward journey across the ocean.

AUGUSTA ELECTRICIAN KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

Augusta, Ga., October 5.—(Special.) Although 500 volts of electricity passed through his body, rendering him unconscious, Warren C. Davenport, city electrician and superintendent of the police and fire alarm telegraph system, is alive and will recover. He was charging extra batteries at the city hall, near a window, through which the rain had blown in onto the floor. While standing on the wet floor he grasped one of the batteries, and was unable to let go. Stepping back about a foot in order to jerk loose, he stepped into an iron sink containing several inches of water and received the full voltage. He cried for help, and his assistant, who was near, cut off the current. He was unconscious when released, but is not badly injured.

EQUAL RIGHTS RALLY AT WAYCROSS FRIDAY

Waycross, Ga., October 5.—(Special.) Mrs. Ida Crouch-Hazlett, who ran for congress in Colorado fourteen years ago, opened a series of meetings in behalf of the woman's suffrage movement here Monday night. She will conclude her engagement Wednesday night. Coming shortly before the election, to be held Saturday at which voters will decide whether to give women the right to vote in Waycross elections, Mrs. Hazlett's visit is attracting much attention. Plans are being formulated for a final suffrage rally Friday night.

as its drug, caffeine, is frequently sold, coffee drinkers would wake up to the fact that coffee is not a food but a drug.

Yet in spite of the warnings of reputable physicians, many persons fail to realize the harmful effects of caffeine, coffee's subtle, habit-forming drug. Taken regularly this coffee drug—the frequent cause of nervousness, heart-flutter, headache and other ailments—sooner or later gets its hold.

Look coffee in the face—read what physicians and health experts say: (Names on application.)

"Coffee is a dope and narcotic almost equal to opium. Slowly but surely it gets control of its victim and holds him in its grasp a pitiful, helpless victim."

"Coffee is a drug. Those addicted to its use are drug addicts."

"Some people get the craving for alcohol by first taking tea or coffee."

"They (the tea and coffee drugs) are comparable to opium in that they induce a habit and should be avoided."

Right now, Mr. Coffee Drinker, is the time to find out whether or not coffee has a hold on you. It's simple and easy—quit coffee ten days and use

GEORGIA TOURISTS RETURN IN SHOWER

Complete Most Successful Tour of State—Muddy, But Merry, Party Enjoys Majestic Luncheon.

The tourists of the second "Seeing Georgia" tour of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce arrived in Atlanta last night and will leave from the Majestic hotel this morning at 9 o'clock upon the last leg of the tour, which ends at Macon tonight. It is expected that a good sized delegation of Atlanta cars will go to Macon, and Macon, dispatches say, is making preparation for a splendid entertainment, including a big dance at the Hotel Lanier tonight.

Fifty Tourists Complete Trip.

There were at least fifty of the tourists who survived the trip to the last lap. The feast had been set for them at the Majestic by C. J. Haden, president of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, and was prepared under the supervision of J. Lee Barnes.

Crowding into the lobby of the hotel, the autoing prodigals staged their favorite burlesque performances, the first feat of which consisted in a "taking off" of President Haden's introduction speech of Ogden Persons, president of the senate, who is accused with having made a speech everywhere along the route that President Haden would present him.

Led by Pacemaker Bill Stoddard, three of the tourists, standing upon the Majestic desk, cried in unison the set formula of words President Haden used on such occasion to present "the estimable president of the state senate."

President Persons Speaks.

This finished, there was an introduction by Mr. Stoddard of J. D. Price, state commissioner of agriculture, who, in turn, introduced President Persons. The president delivered a eulogistic oration upon Georgia's vast resources, and had no end of compliments to pay the "unstinted" hospitality of Georgia's mountain country.

"I live in south Georgia," he spoke, "and there is only one thing I regret—that is that north Georgia and south Georgia are so far apart."

There was a short address by Mrs. O. W. Massey, of Macon, who declared that she had lost all woman's suffrage aspirations upon the "Seeing-Georgia" tour, and concluded by inviting the entire town to come down and pay Macon a visit. Mayor Woodward delivered an address of welcome, to which he received response in the shape of the tour's famorite anthem:

"They say old Jim Woodward he ain't got no style."

A delegation of auto enthusiasts and representatives of the state chamber of commerce had gathered at the Majestic to meet the incomers.

The tourists spent Monday night in Canton, where they were entertained delightfully. The trip to Marietta was made without mishap. Marietta played hostess during the afternoon, giving them a jovial time, one of the most rousing of the trip.

Officials of the tour pronounce it the most successful in the state's history. Every member was enthusiastic, and, even though the last two days were spent in bad weather, it was with reluctance that a great majority of the autoists turned into the home stretch.

After a night at Canton, where the hospitality of the people had the ring of sincerity that makes one remember a host long after departure, the tour left yesterday morning for Marietta.

The original plan was to have gone by Kingston, Adairsville, Rome, Cedartown and Cartersville to Marietta, but the rainy weather and the very muddy roads caused the tourists to decide Tuesday morning to take the most direct route for Marietta, where tremendous preparations had been made for their entertainment.

Those who went to Marietta will remember it as long as they live as one of the times when they were among the state's most prominent and honored citizens.

Just outside the city limits the tourists were met by a large delegation from Marietta in a number of cars and were escorted into the city.

As the tourists came in the horns of a thousand cars burst forth in welcome. In the public square a carnival was staged and a brass band played "Dixie" and other national airs.

The ladies of the tour were taken in charge by a committee consisting of Marietta women. The men of the tour were taken in tow and carried to the armory, where they could "wash up" and "wash down." They did both, after which a fried chicken dinner was served to the entire tour.

The key of the city, a real key of heroic proportions and of glittering gold, was delivered to Pacemaker Stoddard, who immediately proceeded to open up the town.

Shortly, however, and much to his surprise, Pacemaker Stoddard found himself locked up in the calaboose, and when he retained Senator Ogden Persons, president of the senate, for his attorney, Senator Persons was also locked up.

The central committee which arranged all these things and looked out for the needs of the tourists consisted of the following representatives of the Marietta Chamber of Commerce: L. H. Hancock, M. L. McNeel, E. H. Clay, E. P. Dobbs, A. V. Cortelyou, Lem C. Baldwin, E. H. Hunt, Ralph Northcutt and B. S. Brumby.

City Clerk Taylor Has Key to Fortune For Irene Murray

City Clerk Walter Taylor has given out a statement to the effect that he has a friend who has several thousands of dollars for a lady who was, before her marriage, Miss Irene Murray.

He is trying to locate the lucky woman. He says his friend says that her father was once a member of the Atlanta Fire department and died when a fireman, several years ago.

The fire department reports that there was once a fireman named Murray who died when in active service. It is said that he had a daughter and a son, but where the daughter can be found or who she married cannot be ascertained.

The city clerk declares that if somebody will tell him where he can find the woman he will see that she gets the money.

CONGRESSMAN HOWARD TELLS OF WADSWORTH

Hon. William Schley Howard, congressman from the fifth district, in an interview given out Tuesday night relative to the statement of John W. Green, vice president of the Cotton Growers' Co-operative society, which was carried in Tuesday morning's Constitution, said:

"In July, 1912, Mr. P. C. Wadsworth came to Washington and presented to me letters from various constituents of mine testifying to his high character, the soundness of his proposition and his great information relative to cotton conditions in the south. These letters introduced Mr. Wadsworth as president of the Cotton Growers' Co-operative society, and asked my assistance in helping him in any way consistent with my duties to place his proposition before the public.

"On July 19, 1912, Mr. Wadsworth extended an invitation to all southern senators and congressmen to hear an address which he delivered upon the cotton situation in the south. There were many senators and congressmen present and the proposition as set forth in Mr. Wadsworth's remarks portrayed conditions in the south, the slipshod method of marketing the cotton crop, and in fact dealt with a condition we all knew to exist.

"Mr. Wadsworth claimed in this address to have the backing of prominent European and American bankers to the extent of a sufficient amount of capital to handle the southern cotton crop, and he unfolded in this address a proposition to stabilize the price of cotton at fifteen cents per pound. Well, of course, any congressman representing a cotton-growing state in part would have been most derelict in his duty if he had not offered to give assistance in any way that was honorable to a man who was going to prove such a great blessing to his own section of the country.

"After this address—which I admit impressed me as well as many senators and congressmen—I had requests from congressmen and senators for copies of the Wadsworth speech, they knowing Wadsworth to be from my district, and as there was a bill pending in congress for the establishment of a bureau of markets, and as Mr. Wadsworth's plan was not only unique but, per se, practicable, of my own volition, for the information of senators and congressmen as to what this proposition was as distinguished from the George Doyle Wadley scheme, I had printed in the record in full the speech of Mr. Wadsworth, and I had 5,000 copies of this speech printed in pamphlet form, many of which I sent out to my farmer friends in the fifth congressional district; a great many were furnished to southern senators and congressmen upon my request, and probably twelve or fifteen hundred were given to Mr. Wadsworth, and they were paid for by me at the usual rate charged at the government printing office for such printing.

"If Mr. Wadsworth's proposition had gone through, as he represented in his address, as appears in the record, was a surety, then the south would have been emancipated forever and cotton would in fact have been 'King Cotton.'

"This is all I had to do with Mr. Wadsworth, and if he has turned out to be a rascal and has duped anybody or has violated any of the federal statutes, he certainly has done so since these splendid men in my district vouched for his integrity, his honesty and his ability. I am sure he did not beat me out of anything and so far as I have been able to ascertain he did not beat any of the senators and congressmen who were as much interested in their cotton-growing constituents as I. There was no indiscriminate use of my frank by Wadsworth and there has never been any such use given to my frank and as long as I remain in congress there will be no such abuse of the franking privilege.

"His proposition was a beautiful one and I sincerely hope and pray to God that some day such a scheme will be put into actual practice and that the farmers of the cotton-growing states will be assured by such a proposition of at least a reasonable profit on their sweat and muscle."

Girl Tells of Plot; Garrett and Jackson Face Other Charges

C. C. Garrett, one of the men indicted in the Stella Griffin alleged "blackmail" scheme, went to jail last night unable to give the bond of $1,000 required on additional indictment that was returned against him yesterday on an alleged confession of the Griffin girl that he was implicated in a "frame up" to blackmail George Rauch.

Judge R. R. Jackson, Miss Griffin's attorney, was also the object of another indictment Tuesday. He gave the additional $250 bond, however. The first indictments against the attorney and Garrett were for blackmail, but yesterday's action charged subornation of perjury.

The Griffin girl is said by the solicitor's office to have unfolded the entire affair, accusing Judge Jackson and Garrett. The case grew out of a bail trover Miss Griffin, who was formerly a trained nurse of Villa Rica, issued against George Rauch, a young business man, in an effort to regain a check for $12,000 the girl alleged that Rauch had given her as "love balm," but had later taken from her.

REAL ESTATE MEN WANT PARK SYSTEM

Exchange to Name Committee of Fifteen to Ask Council for Park Campaign Appropriation.

Advocating a system of central parks, particularly for women and children, the Atlanta Real Estate Exchange Tuesday at their weekly luncheon adopted a resolution offered by L. C. Green urging the general council to take such steps as necessary to provide such comforts.

R. R. Otis, president of the exchange, criticised the city officials for the lack of park accommodations in the heart of the city and placed the entire blame for the situation at their feet.

He said that with others he had repeatedly appeared before general council committees and urged an appropriation for more parks, but had never been given any satisfaction by the officials.

"It is a peculiar system—our city politics," said President Otis. "These city politicians appear to be honest enough before they get in office, but when they are elected they become peculiarly dishonest through some peculiar system and nothing is accomplished.

"They are all a set of honest men, individually, but it is difficult for any city improvements to be passed. I do not mean to say anything against the officials individually."

Name Park Committee.

Following Mr. Otis' speech, Forrest Adair heartily indorsed the progapanda of the real estate men for more parks and moved that President Otis be authorized to appoint a committee of fifteen real estate agents to go before council in the campaign for city parks.

His resolution was unanimously indorsed and President Otis will announce his committeemen within a few days.

"We need not one park," said Mr. Adair, "but scores of beautiful parks to beautify Atlanta. In western cities there are numbers of central parks in cities of only 5,000 inhabitants."

L. C. Green also spoke in favor of more parks. He declared also that Atlanta needed more public comforts, especially for women. His suggestion was given the form of a motion, which was passed.

That a trade revival in real estate and other lines of business—the loan and renting markets, stocks and bonds—can now be safely anticipated and truthfully predicted in advertisements to investors and buyers, was the opinion as expressed by the speakers.

Mr. Otis called attention to the fact that the south's grain and cotton crops, according to estimates based on prices lower than these products are now selling in the markets, is valued at $2,270,000,000.

Revival of Business.

The president further mentioned that the statements of leading Atlanta banks showed that millions of dollars of deposits were in these banks, showing a big increase in deposits over this time last year. In one bank alone there was an increase in deposits of over $6,000,000.

"This money cannot stay there long," said Mr. Otis. "It is going to move, and when it does, my confidence in real estate men assures me that they will get their share of it. It will mean the revival in our business which has been hoped for so long."

"Six or seven months ago," said Mr. Adair, "I did not feel that I could honestly look a buyer in the face and tell him that real estate was going to improve. Now conditions have changed. Cotton is selling at 12 cents a pound, and this means real things for Atlanta real estate.

"I feel now that I can talk in a 'bullish' manner to any buyer or investor who comes into my office. Bankers are actually hunting borrowers."

Mr. Adair predicted that the trade revival in the real estate market would not come about within thirty days, or forty days, but expressed himself as confident that by next spring good trading in Atlanta dirt would be going on.

He stated that he did not expect to see the speculator enter the local market by that time, but added that he thought it would be a good thing for the local market.

Indorse Harvest Festival.

S. B. Turman, in a short speech, spoke of the Georgia Harvest Festival, and explained what it would mean to Atlanta.

At the close of his speech, he moved that the Atlanta Real Estate board indorse the festival movement, and pledge their hearty support to the committees in charge of getting up the festival. His motion was received with much applause.

Mr. Turman, who is one of the county commissioners, said that the county would do everything in its power to make the festival a success. He added that in all likelihood the county would parade on the streets the modern road machinery, giving the farmers who will be in Atlanta an opportunity of seeing these big machines.

Bank Robbed of $4,000.

Shawnee, Okla., October 5.—The men blew open the vault of the State bank at Maud, Okla., fifteen miles south of here, shortly after midnight and escaped with $4,000. A sheriff's posse pursued the men.

EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS IF KIDNEYS HURT

Says a tablespoonful of Salts flushes Kidneys, stopping Backache.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

RIVER NAVIGATION GROWS IN INTEREST

Proposed Chattahoochee Improvement Finds Ready Supporters in All Local Civic Organizations--Meeting Thursday.

The Chattahoochee river meeting called by the chamber of commerce for Thursday night at 8 o'clock promises to be one of the most important of the season.

In addition to letters sent to every member of the chamber of commerce, and all the civic organizations in the city as well as to the mayor and council, county commissioners and railroad commissioners, announcements were made yesterday at the Rotary club and the Wholesale Credit Men's association. More announcements will be made today at the meetings of other organizations.

Letters from outside the city are beginning to come in and a good attendance from other towns and counties is expected.

Major Earl I. Brown, United States engineer, who will be the chief speaker at Thursday night's meeting, is expected to reach Atlanta Thursday morning and have a conference with the executive committee.

Engineers Are Invited.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock the committee on engineering and applied science will meet the engineers and architects of the city at the chamber of commerce to discuss in a general way these features of the enterprise. The engineers and members of other scientific professions are also extended a special invitation to attend the meeting Thursday evening.

The committee on freight rates, H. Y. McCord, chairman, met yesterday afternoon at the chamber of commerce with H. T. Moore, Brooks Morgan, C. H. Kelley and R. S. Wessels in attendance.

The committee, after discussing the situation, sent out letters requesting information to be submitted to Vice Chairman Moore, who will compile the results and submit a consolidated report at an adjourned meeting to be held Thursday at noon at the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Moore has already secured statistics showing the volume of business moving over other rivers in the southeast and the committee was astonished at the large volume of this traffic.

Advantage of Navigation.

He will combine this information with a comparison of the traffic area of the Chattahoochee river compared with those of the other rivers already navigable.

At this meeting the fact was brought out that the Warrior river improvement has caused a reduction of about 20 per cent in the freight on goods moved by water from New York to Birmingham.

While the committee cannot make a complete report by Thursday, it will be able to make a very interesting general statement showing the probable effect of navigation over the Chattahoochee to Atlanta. Fuller information will be collected and submitted before the end of the month. This information will give the tonnage of important commodities moving into and out of Atlanta, and likely to be affected by water navigation.

Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, president, and other officers and members of the City Federation of Women's Clubs, has been invited to attend the meeting Thursday evening.

Amorous Calls Meeting.

Martin F. Amorous, chairman of the executive committee, having general charge of the work by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce for the opening of the Chattahoochee river to navigation, has called a meeting of that committee for Thursday at luncheon.

Mr. Amorous is enthusiastic on the Chattahoochee improvement, and believes it will be entirely feasible. His letter of acceptance which follows is a very strong expression of his views on the subject:

"W. G. Cooper, Esq., Secretary Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Atlanta—Dear Sir: Your favor notifying me of my appointment as chairman of executive committee to secure navigation for Atlanta on the Chattahoochee.

"I have heretofore declined work or occupation, but I view this project as being the greatest ever proposed for Atlanta's advancement, and if the committee selected will also accept, I am willing to devote my entire time and effort to its successful termination, as I feel anyone who assists in this work is conferring on his fellow citizens and his children the greatest material benefit ever accomplished for this community and the state at large.

"Yours truly,

(Signed) "MARTIN F. AMOROUS.

"Atlanta, Ga., October 5, 1915."

The executive committee is composed of the following: M. F. Amorous, chairman; Asa G. Candler, J. K. Orr, Fuller E. Callaway of LaGrange, J. W. Conway, Albert Howell, Jr., P. S. Arkwright and B. M. Hall.

SWOBODA WILL BE SENT TO CONCENTRATION CAMP

Paris, October 5.—Raymond Swoboda, who was arrested last March charged with setting fire to the French liner La Touraine and later was accused of being a German spy, will be sent to a concentration camp. Charges against Swoboda were not proved and Major Jullien of the Paris permanent court-martial recently recommended to the military governor of Paris that proceedings against him be dropped.

Now That the Time Is Coming When Blankets and Comforts Must Be Bought

We wish to make it clear in good time that several decided advantages will rest with the housekeeper who selects her beddings here this fall.

First, recent rises in the cost of blankets (wool) do not affect our present supplies. As the saying goes, "we got in right." We had contracts that safeguarded prices and qualities.

And having these, we took full advantage of them, by collecting a splendid, a vast variety.

Now come the harvest days, the days when housekeepers, seeing the qualities we are offering, will know that this store is really effecting economies for them.

Checked Woolen Blankets

They come in pink, blue, lavender, tan, gold and green checks.

Size—		Size—
66x80 in., three-quarters wool	$4.50	72x80 in., three-quarters wool	$6.50

AS THEY SEE IT NOW.

Following the big allied drive on the French front thanksgiving services were held in English churches in recognition of the assistance rendered by the God of battles—the Providence that fights for England and her allies—when it is not winning victories for the enemy!

Since the French dash the tone of the German press seems not so sure of uninterrupted Divine help; where was supreme confidence in aid from the Higher source an "if" has intruded. A New York Sun cable dispatch quotes this expression of opinion from The Leipziger Neueste Nachrichten:

> One thing is certain, the time for the most violent combats, perhaps the time of the final decision of the war, has arrived. But if our old God has reserved victory for the Germans He will cause the strength of the French army and nation to be utterly exhausted and the spirit of the people to become so depressed that all the paper armies of Kitchener will be unable to hold them in the belief of ultimate victory.

The above is probably the first uncertain editorial utterance on the German side as to the Divine feature of it. "We cannot help but win," the kaiser is reported to have said on a former and more fortunate occasion, "since God fights with us."

The unsure tone is absent there.

But now things are happening on that western front; prayer and powder clash; and prayer—to quote the Bishop of London at the very beginning of the war—"has its mission, but we must keep the powder mills busy!"

For the offensive of Joffre and French, in the view of leading German newspapers, foreshadows a Battle of the Rhine, which they predict will decide the issues of the war.

"If" God be on either side—but they will not permit the worry of that question to hamper their movements then. The heaviest artillery—the most effective bombs and hand grenades—the bayonet charge—these will decide.

After the smoke has cleared and the slaughter is complete—a division of the spoils of war in sight, the victors may have time and grace to thank God for it all—for the "Peace of Desolation."

TRIBUTES TO THE LIVING.

The day of the Grub street author went glimmering long ago; the garrets of the great ones are dusty memories; manuscripts over which Posterity may wrangle—if there be any such now—are not bartered at breadprices, and authors speeding to Fame or Oblivion in limousines, or dining in state, excite no wonder. It is the age of pay and profit in literature.

Not only in these important things is authorship on Easy street, but the writer whose work has endeared him to the people anticipates Posterity by reading his own epitaph in their present appreciation, and instead of a marble memorial hereafter he may have a paying interest in a marble yard now!

Few have been the authors who by their work alone have risen to the millionaire class, but we find them here and there in this work-rewarding day.

And we find the people of cities and states in enthusiastic rivalry to celebrate the anniversary of a living author's birthday, this high honor falling to James Whitcomb Riley—"The Gentleman from Indiana;" for Indiana cannot keep him to herself who belongs to the whole country.

In addition to the earlier program for the Riley celebrations on October 7, it is announced that "Riley Luncheons" will be given, and at one of these, to be held in St. Louis, Dr. James W. Lee, formerly of Atlanta, will be toastmaster.

So it happens now that the poets are not only themselves well-fed, but they are instrumental, aside from their songs, in "passing the good things of life around." There was a time when they were fed on incense alone and were conservative of crumbs; but even in this iron age Business is not too busy to turn aside and honor them—to pay tribute to the genius of a man like James Whitcomb Riley, whose work is not for a day, a city or a state, but for the world and all time.

GEORGIA HAY CROPS.

The hay harvest in Georgia is promising; good reports are coming in from various sections, as the direct results of the interest in stock raising—in better breeds of stock.

Speaking of hay prospects in three counties only, where a diversity of crops is contributing in no small measure to the welfare of the people, the editor of The Commerce (Ga.) News says:

> We traveled a hundred miles through Banks, Franklin and Madison Monday, and we are willing to go on the Bible and state positively that we never saw as much fine hay, already cut and stacked, in one day. It means fat mules, good milk cows, fine beef cattle, peace, prosperity and happiness.

Excellent hay crops are being harvested in many Georgia counties where the home food-producing program is being followed.

A correspondent of The Campbell (Ga.) News, commenting on the interest of the people of the cities in food crops, says there are many idle acres in Georgia that would yield rich harvests if put under intelligent cultivation:

> We wish more city men would invest in the idle lands of Georgia, build houses and induce the many families who are living from "hand to mouth" in the cities to come to the country and live bountifully, if not in luxury. We want to see more small farms in Campbell county and fewer large tracts of idle lands.

It is an invitation to future prosperity, now that farming interests everywhere are on the up grade, and even the small farmer is making headway on the live-at-home plan.

THE WRONG VIEW OF IT.

It is to be regretted that so eminent a philanthropist and pacifist as Henry Ford, a man ordinarily broad-minded in the highest and best sense of that term, should have gone to the extent of threatening boycott against those banks and financial institutions which saw fit to join in the effort to protect the commerce of the United States by subscribing to the Anglo-French loan, now about to be concluded.

Mr. Ford, ordinarily noted as a patriotic humanitarian, attacks the American farmer and the American producer when he says, as he is quoted as saying:

> If I find any of the banks in which my company or myself have deposits taking part in the loan I will immediately close our account.

If Mr. Ford has been correctly quoted, and we would prefer to believe that he has not, he has taken the wrong view of it, even from the standpoint of the most vigorous opponent of the loan. No American citizen, even though he may disapprove the loan on principle, can afford to set himself up as supreme judge and declare that he will fight to a finish those whose views happen to be antagonistic to his own.

This loan, which has been fully subscribed and more, is not a loan of cash, but a loan of credit for the purchase of the products of American farms and factories, and from which powder and shot and arms and all other absolute munitions of war are excluded. It is a credit extended purely upon a business basis; the fact that there is no sentiment about it is evidenced in the interest basis of 6 per cent, the highest rate ever paid for credit by the English and French governments.

This credit has been arranged upon identical terms that would be made for Germany, were that country in a position to take advantage of them; it was extended because it was necessary to protect the trade of this country; without it the prices of American products would have dropped, in many instances, to such extent as to have created distress that would have been far-reaching. The war munitions situation is not concerned in it, in any manner whatsoever. The allied countries will continue to pay in cash on a gold basis for whatever purchases in this direction they may make. In extending this credit we have simply taken out a big insurance policy for the protection of our ordinary trade, a protection made necessary by war conditions in Europe.

As big and broad-minded as he is, Mr. Ford must already have thought better of this proposition. There is no more reason why he or any other business man should take that position toward a bank which might see fit to participate in this credit than that they should refuse to do business with a bank whose president happened to vote on the opposite side in politics.

The loan will be made and American commerce will be protected. We believe in time even its opponents will realize, if they do not admit, that its business achievement more than justified it, regardless of their own sentimental opposition.

The glory of war is dimmed. The pick-and-shovel brigade don't want to present arms to the film men.

Still, if the Russian prisoners make the crops for Germany she shouldn't grumble about feeding them.

The daredevil Turk doesn't mind being sent to heaven, and his allied enemies are still very obliging.

"Anybody may subscribe to the foreign loan." Right there is where most editors are distressingly neutral.

Austria has so much other trouble on her hands she doesn't seem to want Dr. Dumba.

A Wintry Night for Dreams.

I.

The wind's lost—somewhere in the night;
And keen the cold stars gleam:
A fine oak fire a-blazing bright:
Draw near,' and dream your dream!
On a dream voyage you embark.
Where race the red sparks to the dark.

II.

A wintry night for dreams—and so
The dreams, they come, as sweet
As summer-singing winds that blow
From many a loved retreat;
That toss the rose-leaves to the spot
Where Love has traced: "Forget Me Not!"

III.

Only sweet dreams may enter here,
Music in life to make
Where a lone dreamer now may wear
A flower for Love's sweet sake.
Not all Love's roses drooped and died:
They bloom where memories abide.

IV.

And these are memories that save
The soul from bitter woes;
The memory of a rose Love gave
Is sweeter than the rose.
And Love—the dreams to bleak life bringing,
Sets even the winds of winter singing.

A story is going the rounds of a Haitien general who had ordered a glass eye, and being dissatisfied with it, he returned it to the English manufacturers, saying that the color resembled that of the Spanish flag, adding: "I am far too patriotic to wear any colors but those of my own country." Whereupon the makers sent him a scarlet and green eye, which he is said to have received with enthusiastic approval.

RIPPLING RHYMES

By WALT MASON.

THE BURGLAR.

The burglar goes swiping, while honest men sleep, their noses a-piping forth snores loud and deep. The burglar goes stealing, on pussy-foot boot, with deft fingers feeling around for the loot. He may get a spoon or a silver teapot, but later or sooner the burglar is shot. Some night when he's rakin' around by your bed, the sleeper will waken and fill him with lead. A cell in a prison, and work without pay—such fortune is his'n, or will be some day. No comforts can reach him while serving his time; you'd think it would teach him the folly of crime. You'd think he'd endeavor when once he is free, to cut out forever the loot-hunting spree. But when the grim cooler has opened its door, one hope is his ruler—to burgle some more! He goes forth a-stealing, he wallows in sin, and peelers come peeling, and gather him in. Why is he so mulish, so stubborn, insane? The fellow so foolish requires a new brain. For honesty's easy, and profits us well, but crime's always cheesy, and ends in a cell. Oh, bairns, hear me gurgle this warning to you: Don't learn how to burgle, whatever you do!

Massengale Advocates Downtown Parks in Atlanta

Editor Constitution: I read with much interest Mrs. Peel's talk, also her articles since and your editorials, and I think it is splendid that the women have taken interest in the betterment of our great city. I am glad to see they are taking more interest in city affairs. I am sure all of us have the good of Atlanta at heart, and civic pride goes hand in hand with improvement and beautifying our metropolis.

We should not criticise too severely, however. I returned yesterday from New York, and of all the years I have been going there I never saw Broadway as torn up and demoralized. You know a "finished" city is a dead city. Building and repairing show progress. Our streets must be fixed, but how about our crowded downtown condition, and what future plans are we making?

While sitting all day recently in our magnificent new courthouse, looking towards the capitol of our state, it occurred to me that with the need of a new executive mansion, and particularly of a downtown park, which Atlanta needs worse than anything else, and with her need for a new police station, central high school building, city market, county jail, etc., that the remainder of the block on which the courthouse stands could be adorned with buildings of the same style of architecture and beauty as that of our new county courthouse, and have the new buildings face toward the capitol. It then occurred to me that the block bounded by Washington, Hunter and Mitchell streets and Central avenue, could be condemned or bought at less expense than most any other block in the center of the city, because the city already has a fire engine house on one corner and there are three or four churches in this block that could easily build at other places, and there are no other imposing buildings of any kind; therefore, this block could be beautified and improved into a park, and with the state capitol facing a park of this kind, and the county and city buildings of imposing architecture, it would be quite in keeping with other improvement that is coming when we build the plaza over the railroad gorge in the center of the city.

Another park should be made out of the triangle block facing the auditorium, bounded by Courtland and Gilmer streets and Edgewood avenue. Both these parks could, I believe, be handled more conveniently at the present status of our city than at some future time, and I believe should be considered in the bond issue before it is taken up next year. I think it would be a happy plan for the state, county and city to work together in a matter of this kind for the benefit of all. Look at the park in Richmond, Va., downtown and yet around their state capitol. Memphis, New Orleans, Savannah and other southern cities have downtown breathing spots—where is ours?

T. Larry Gantt Writes About the Boll Weevil

Editor Constitution: I take my pen in hand to drap you a few lines to tell you what I know about the cotton boll weevil, which pest, I see, has invaded your grand old state. For three years I have lived in Jones county, Mississippi, the very heart and center of weevil-infested territory, and I think I know as much about the pest as those experts Uncle Sam has cavorting over Georgia getting up and addressing meetings to fight the weevil.

Sherman said that "War is hell," and I assure you that same pen portrait, or whatever you may designate it, applies to the cotton boll weevil.

When I was an honest, horny-handed tiller of the soil, farmers contended it took thirteen months to make a crop of cotton; but under boll weevil conditions it takes at least fourteen months of the hardest kind of work. It is true that you can grow cotton in spite of the weevil, but under the most favorable conditions a farmer cannot make over half a crop, and the staple is of inferior grade, selling for from one-quarter to one-half a cent below the market. And you just can't raise boll weevil cotton with negro labor, for the darky will not do the required and necessary work. For instance, the fields must be gone over every ten days, each punctured boll gathered and the stalks searched for the pests, just like looking over a nigger's head for what may be found, and these burned.

The hardest money a farmer ever made is from boll weevil cotton. To show you what this little pest will do, I saw in this county one nine-acre patch of cotton that would have made over a bale per acre. But Mr. Weevil struck it, and the farmer only gathered 209 pounds of inferior lint from the entire lot; and this is about an average yield where the weevil gets a good hold.

Weevil Is a Hardy Customer.

I see that your farmers are advised to burn old stalks. I am not very well posted on the scripture, but I think there is a passage that reads: "In my Father's house there are many mansions," or words to that effect. The boll weevil has also many mansions outside of old cotton stalks. They hibernate during the winter months under the bark of pine trees, in rotten logs and trash, and every other imaginable place of habitation; they will thrive and propagate their species in any sort of climate, live content and raise large families in a block of ice, or on top of a red-hot stove.

I do not think the weevil will ever invade your Piedmont escarpment, and I doubt if they move farther north than Hancock county; but farmers living south of McDuffie had as well make up their minds to the invasion. To grow cotton, I would not give ten cents per acre for the best farming land in Georgia after the boll weevil once gets a good toe-holt in the state.

To show you what the weevil does for the cotton-grower, Jesse Walters, a good citizen and industrious farmer of this county, was in town recently with a small roll of greenbacks he had made selling watermelons, syrup and sweet potatoes. I told Jesse I thought the boll weevil had eaten up all the farmer's money. Jesse replied that they had, and for two or three years they learned to do without currency and resorted to a bartering business; but they are now raising other crops, and with the help of an occasional bale of cotton, were slowly but surely getting ahead.

Cut the Value of Land.

The advent of this pest absolutely destroyed the value of farming land in this community, and you could not borrow from a bank $10 on the finest farm in the country, and the financial stagnation also struck town property. But this is a fine country, with the whole land covered with natural grasses—only one acre in fifty being in cultivation—and we are gradually developing into a stock-raising section.

I see that my old friend Jim Price is strenuously at work combating the weevil—traveling over the state in a motor car and holding indignation meetings, meetings of protestation, prayer meetings and every other kind of meeting in a vain hope of eradicating the pest.

Now, I know Jim Price of old, and he is one of the finest and biggest-hearted fellows living; but I very much doubt if Jim's prayers will ever ascend high enough to harm the weevil. And as to those public meetings he is getting up, they remind me of a story told by Charlie Baldwin, of Athens. Charlie said that when Sherman's army was marching through Georgia a detachment of federal troops were reported near the little town of Ellaville, where he then lived. An excitable old man frantically rushed to the mayor of the town and, grasping his arm, exclaimed:

"Mr. Blazes, the foul invader is advancing upon us and threatens to befoul our lovely young city with his presence! Why are you not doing something? Do you mean to stand supinely by and see Ellaville desecrated by the hostile foe? We must be up and doing!"

The mayor remarked: "Why, Mr. Blank, what in the high heavens can we do? There are only women and children and a few old men and boys left here, and those federal troops are said to be 5,000 strong."

"We must do something!" exclaimed the excited individual. "If nothing else, let us call a meeting of the citizens in the town hall and pass resolutions protesting to General Sherman against his troops invading Ellaville."

Meetings of Little Good.

It strikes me that those protesting, anti-cotton boll weevil meetings now being held over Georgia will prove just about as efficacious in getting rid of the pest as the resolutions suggested by the Ellaville citizen to stay Sherman's march.

But I don't want to be understood as casting one straw in the way of my old friend, Jim Price. Jim is a practical and successful farmer and stock-raiser, and is one of the best commissioners of agriculture Georgia ever had.

We are told that "the poor we will always have with us," and this applies with equal force to the cotton boll weevil when it strikes a country. This section was not so much infested the past season, owing to a long drought and a reduced cotton acreage; but if we have plenty of moisture next year, they will be on us again by the millions.

The best advice I can give my old Georgia friends is to accept this plague with Christian resignation, to sell off their motor cars and other superfluities, and go to raising cattle and foodstuffs, or make up their minds to accept honest poverty. By burning stalks they will get rid of a few weevils, but bear in mind that the deceased will leave myriads of live and prolific relatives, and when cotton begins next spring to take on squares they are going to appear in countless numbers to hold wakes over their departed friends.

But there is no danger of any man starving in Georgia, and farmers must supplant the fleecy staple with food crops and learn to do without money. They can resort to old frontier currency, when a man would walk into a barroom, take a drink, throw down a coonskin and be given a rabbit skin in change. But I say to you, in all truth and earnestness, don't hug the hallucination to your bosom, Mr. Georgia Farmer, that you can ever exterminate the boll weevil when the pest once takes up its abode among you, or that you are going to have any picnic raising cotton under boll weevil conditions.

The Railway Pay Problem.

Editor Constitution: There should be no problem in the settlement of this matter. The parties interested should be so fair and open-minded, and so obsessed with a will to be just, and a heart to do right, that there could be no trouble in safeguarding the rights of all.

In a government like ours all the parties interested in carrying mails are mutually dependent. The government owns no railroads—it must depend upon existing lines owned and controlled by a corporate body of citizens to carry its mails of all classes. The railroads must obey all laws enacted by the congress, and are therefore dependent upon the congress for just laws governing mail traffic. The people are dependent on both the congress and the railroads and they want good service at fair pay.

Let it be remembered that all business in this day and time must be conducted on mutual faith and confidence in the honesty and integrity of all the parties concerned. Government officials are chosen in the belief that they will be fair and just in the administration of law. Railroad presidents are selected, not because they are brigands, but because they are men of large experience and recognized integrity, whose constant aim is to give the people efficient service for reasonable remuneration. The great mass of American people who are taxed to support the government, and who pay for the maintenance of the railroads, will cheerfully pay their part of the common burden when they have faith that everybody is getting a "square deal."

These premises seem to be sound and of universal application. They may help in any patient analysis and intelligent study of the Moon bill that was before congress at its last session. Representative John A. Moon, of Tennessee, attempted to secure the passage of his railway pay bill through congress in the last hours of its session on March 3 and 4, 1915.

Bill Failed to Pass Congress.

All fair-minded men must admit that the effort to fasten so important a matter as this railway pay bill as a "rider" on an appropriation bill has an ugly look on the face of it. Representing one of the contracting parties, Representative Moon appears in an attempt to secure legislation which will give despotic power that will compel the other contracting party to do all its unrestrained bidding. In our democratic government people will not long endure any form of oppression. Any contract that is secured by any means known to be unjust and unfair to either party to the contract must be regarded by all fair-minded people as being oppressive.

Up to this good hour all contracts that have been made with railroads for carrying mails, the world over, seems to have been made on a weight basis and not on a space basis. It seems to be universally admitted that the "wear and tear" on engines, cars, rails, etc., does not depend on the space occupied by the freight carried, but on the weight of the freight carried. It is weight and not space that produces friction and wear. The government has always rated the postage paid on all mails by the weight of the matter, and not the space occupied by the matter. Why should the government charge for postage on a weight basis and then make the railroads carry the mails on a space basis?

The fundamental defect of the space scheme of payment is that car space can never be a measure of the service rendered. The people from the beginning have paid taxes for service and not for space. Yet the Moon bill proposes to allow the postmaster general to continue to charge the people for postage by weight and then pay the railroads for carrying mails by space. It offers no tables of experience by which proper remuneration for carrying mails may be fixed. It simply gives the postmaster general despotic power to fix the pay according to car capacity, which he may change at will; provided the pay shall not exceed a fixed limit.

Bill Passed the House.

To a layman, unskilled in the devious ways of politics, and with little knowledge of the intricate arts of statecraft, but who clings to the old-fashioned ideal of simple honesty and fair dealing, this bill appears monstrous. How the bill ever passed the house of representatives can only be explained on the theory that the members were so absorbed in other matters that they did not take the time to examine the provisions of this measure.

The czar of Russia has not any more power over his vast domain than this bill gives the postmaster general over the handling and pay for hauling the United States mail. The bill is despotism pure and simple and no sane man can make anything else of it. Take any view of "public policy" or "public utility" that one may please, nobody has yet stretched authority under either doctrine to mean that government may confiscate property. The right of "eminent domain" and the laws governing the control and use of property in time of stress of war even, provide for proper compensation.

This bill says in substance that the postmaster general shall fix rates for carrying mail on a space basis, prepare a contract on these rates so fixed and compel compliance with this contract under heavy penalty. The postmaster general is not required to appear in any court with evidence showing that the rates of pay which he fixes are reasonable and just. The railroads must accept such pay as he offers them or be severely punished for their refusal. Even in a political game the people want the game played fairly.

The railroads have shown by the submission of facts and figures that nobody has questioned that their revenue from handling the mail is much less than the revenue they receive from any other class of business. They contend, with apparent justice, that since the introduction of parcel post they have received relatively much less pay for carrying the mails than before. Every commission appointed by congress to investigate the matter of revenues from mails as compared with revenue from other classes of business done by the railroads has reported that the railroads are not overpaid for carrying the mails. The railroads contend that the express traffic and the passenger traffic as compared with the mail traffic yield respectively 19 per cent and 37 per cent more than the transportation of the United States mail.

The railroads also contend, with apparent justice, that in all the estimates given out as to the costs of carrying the mails by the postoffice department, no allowance whatever has ever been made by the postoffice department for earning a return upon the property of the railroads devoted to the postal service. Let it not be forgotten that every investigation commission appointed by congress and every expert authority that has looked into the matter of postal earnings of the railroads have all reached the conclusion either that the railroads were underpaid for the service, or that they were not overpaid.

The interstate commerce commission laid down a principle in the advance freight rate case July 29, 1914, that is absolutely ignored by the Moon bill. The commission says: "In our opinion each branch of the service should contribute its proper share of the cost of operation and of return upon the property devoted to the use of the public." This is sound doctrine.

Railroads for Yearly Weighing.

The railroads are contending for the weighing of the mails at least once a year and the adjustment of pay according to the weight on every railway mail route. This contention seems to be just in view of the well-known fact that the mails are increasing in weight at a rapid rate every year. It might be fair for the railroads to pay for half of the expense of this annual weighing. The railroads are also contending for pay for the use and operation of apartment postoffice cars, for which the present law allows no pay, on a pro rata basis with the compensation allowed for full railway postoffice cars. The astonishing thing about this matter is that the authorities would undertake to use property without offering to pay for it. The railroads also contend that they be paid for carrying the mails between railroad stations and postoffices, or that they be relieved from carrying such mails.

Thoughtful people all over our land are drifting to the conclusion that the ultimate solution of the railway mail pay problem lies in a reference of the whole matter to the interstate commerce commission, with complete power to act. Both the railroads and postoffice department would do well in asking that the settlement of the whole matter should take this direction. The problem is not political, but economic. One of the authorities who has given a great amount of study to this question well says: "Reference of this matter to the interstate commerce commission would round out and make complete, as far as interstate traffic is concerned, the regulative authority of the commission, and so give full opportunity for testing out the system of public regulation of railroads which this nation has adopted. Besides, the development of the parcel post as a commercial service, competitive with freight and express, makes it fitting that the same authority which regulates freight and express rates and traffic should exercise a like supervision in the case of mail traffic.

Latest Broughton Sensation.

(From (Tenn.) Baptist and Reflector.)

When it became known that Dr. Len G. Broughton was returning to America and was to become pastor of the First Church in Knoxville it was freely predicted that the ultra conservatism that had settled upon the Old First church would give way to a wave of sensationalism. The prediction has been fully verified, for the most sensational period of her existence has come to the First church, as well as to the people of Knoxville. It is a sensation produced by that most sensational thing in these materialistic and humanistic days—a faithful ministry of the Word. Since his coming Dr. Broughton has given himself wholly to the faithful preaching of the old Book. It is the Bible all the time and his is a Bible message every time. The crowds throng the house at every preaching service and at every prayer meeting. The most recent and most "sensational" phase of Dr. Broughton's work is the inauguration of a "Friday Night Bible School," meeting every Friday night for the study of the Bible. It might be thought that in these hurried busy days few people would be interested in such a "prosy, hum-drum" affair as a Bible class study. They might be attracted by an ecclesiastical picture show or by a clerical discussion of social, civic or economic questions. But Bible study! "Well, that means needless effort and wasted energy."

The writer went down to attend the first night session of this Bible school, thinking that perhaps he would be one of a few interested persons present. But when the hour came the large auditorium was crowded, despite the many outside distractions, including a popular minstrel show. Dr. Broughton's opening lecture was on the "Book of Genesis." With a free use of the blackboard and by a clear-cut, analytical presentation, he "opened" the book to his class. Generation of all things. Man's degeneration and God's plan for man's Regeneration were the leading ideas developed in the discussion. The "Friday Night Bible School" is to be a permanent feature of Dr. Broughton's work in Knoxville. The earnest teaching of the book by this man of God, filled with a consuming love for the book and the ardent response of the people eager to learn the teachings of the Book afford to us the latest Broughton "sensation," for which every lover of the Word of God may well praise the God of the Word.

Personally, I am thankful for the coming of Dr. Broughton to Knoxville and that he is giving himself to this ministry of teaching.

CHARGE FOUR ATLANTA SODA FOUNTS WITH VIOLATING PURE MILK LAWS

Solicitor General Hugh Dorsey will be furnished with evidence against four well-known Atlanta soda dispensaries today, which will be the basis for action in the courts against these firms on the charge of violation of the pure milk act of the general assembly of 1914.

The pure milk act stipulates that any violation shall be classified as a misdemeanor, and punishable as such.

State Veterinarian Peter F. Bahnsen, with his agents, has gathered the evidence against the Atlanta firms. The following are the firms against whom proceedings will be instituted this morning:

United Cigar Stores, six violations charged, high bacterial count in milk; Atlanta Creamery, 114 Edgewood avenue, six charges; Hood's Pharmacy, 431 Marietta street, one violation, and White House cafe, 236 Courtland street, one violation.

The reports filed with the solicitor general contain charges that in some instances the bacterial count of the milk tested by the state's agents ran as high as 15,000,000 to the cubic centimeter, a cubic centimeter comprising abut fifteen drops of milk.

Mr. Bahnsen explained his action against the Atlanta dealers as follows:

"Public decency has demanded that I take action against these firms. I have warned them a number of times, and asked them to co-operate with us. The cases are made only where we failed to get any co-operation on the part of the managements. I must safeguard public interest as provided under the pure milk act of 1914. Other cases will be made as soon as we can get to them, and cases will be made in other cities against soda dispensers and dairies."

Mr. Bahnsen also stated that he only made cases against those dealers where the bacterial count ran higher than 500,000 per cubic centimeter.

He also added that he would institute charges against two Macon firms, the names of which he withheld.

BELIEVES COTTON SHOULD BRING 18C

Representative Heflin, of Alabama, Comments on Increased Consumption and Decreased Production.

Representative Heflin, of Alabama, a member of the house committee on agriculture, who has been giving special attention to the conditions of the cotton crop for the last three months, gave out the following statement Monday:

"I have been keeping in close touch with the cotton situation, and feel that I am in a position to know something about the condition of the cotton crop of the United States. Within the last ten days I have wired the commissioners of agriculture in all of the cotton growing states. I sent this telegram: 'Please wire, my expense, your opinion, condition, per cent and size of the cotton corp in your state.' The responses show the average condition throughout the cotton belt to be a little less than 60 per cent, and the size of the crop as follows:

Alabama	900,000 bales
Arkansas	800,000 bales
Florida	62,000 bales
Georgia	1,800,000 bales
Louisiana	300,000 bales
Mississippi	1,100,000 bales
North Carolina	750,000 bales
Oklahoma	275,000 bales
South Carolina	1,100,000 bales
Tennessee	231,000 bales
Texas	3,000,000 bales
Missouri	37,000 bales
Virginia	11,000 bales
Total	10,366,000 bales

"The total crop for 1914 was 15,905,000 bales. In 1910 the cotton crop was about 12,000,000 bales, and there were then 134,000,000 spindles to be supplied; and then cotton was being used on a very small scale for smokeless powder and explosive purposes. Now the crop will be about 16,000,000 bales, and there are 146,000,000 spindles to be supplied, and powder and high explosive shell factories must have at least three million bales.

Cotton Acreage Greatly Reduced.

"Where is the cotton to come from? Cotton acreage was reduced in India by order of the British government to produce food supplies for the army. A like order reduced the cotton acreage in Egypt for the same purpose, and Russia reduced her cotton acreage for the same reason. The cotton farmers of the United States have produced on a large scale food supplies where cotton grew a year ago. They have reduced the cotton acreage in the souun nearly 5,000,000 acres, and cut the amount of fertilizers used a year ago more than half.

"The cotton farmer is acquainted with the cotton situation. He realizes his position in the affairs of the cotton world. He knows that the world's supply is not going to be sufficient to meet the world's demand, and he is going to hold his cotton, borrow money on his warehouse receipt if need be, and receive his price or refuse to sell. Secretary McAdoo has assured us that we can get all the money necessary to enable us to market this crop to the very best advantage. Cotton will be 15 cents before Christmas and may be 20 cents before May, 1916."

Germans Use 5,000 Bales Daily.

On August 13, 1915, The New York Commercial said:

"British officials claim that the kaiser's guns are firing 5,000 bales of cotton a day." If the Germans are using 5,000 bales of cotton a day in gun powder and high explosives, it is reasonable to calculate that the entire allied armies are using at least 5,000 bales a day. Then 10,000 bales a day for 300 days would be 3,000,000 bales of cotton.

A special from New York to The Detroit, Mich., Free Press, September 26, said: "Great Britain has contracted for 12,000,000 12 and 16-inch high explosive shells to be manufactured in the United States. They are to be delivered early in 1916." It will require 1,150,000 bales of cotton to fill that contract.

The New York Commercial said a few days ago: "Cotton is the chief ingredient in the smokeless powder of our day." And it adds, "some of the greatest authorities have shown that cotton is as essential in modern warfare as guns."

A London paper said recently: "The powder used in the rifle and high explosive shells of the field gun is not as in Napoleon's day made of charcoal, saltpeter and sulphur, but it is made chiefly of cotton."

Smokeless Powder Two-thirds Cotton.

The same London paper said: "British and German powder is at least two-thirds gun-cotton. The cotton is dipped in nitric acid, washed and dried, and then it is gun-cotton."

In Spain, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Holland, and, in fact, in all of the neutral countries the demand for American cotton is greater than ever before.

The average price of cotton for five years prior to 1914 was 13 cents. The average price for the 1914 crop was 8 cents. So, in order to bring the 1914-1915 crops up to the average price paid for five years preceding 1914, this crop must bring 18 cents.

WEEVIL EXPERTS SPEAK TO MUSCOGEE FARMERS

Worsham and Experts Will Speak at Columbus Courthouse Today.

Columbus, Ga., October 5.—(Special.) State Entomologist Worsham and four of his assistants arrived in the city this afternoon to be present at a meeting tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in the city court room of the courthouse when the invasion of the boll weevil is to be discussed, and where some definite steps are to be taken toward relieving Muscogee county and the threatened section of Georgia of the great losses, which other sections of the county have suffered.

It is taken as a fact that the weevil will be in Muscogee county next year in large numbers, and that much damage will result, if nothing is done, and this meeting is to bring the citizens of the Chattahoochee valley to a realization of what they must face.

Letters have been written to hundreds of farmers and to organizations urging a large attendance at the meeting, and the answers received tend to show that a large number of farmers and business men will be present.

Tonight a conference of business men and bankers was held with the experts in preparing for the meeting tomorrow morning and every effort made to organize the people.

Already this year there is some damage reported, although it has been kept more or less quiet, and the experts are now impressing on the people the necessity of action. It is urged by a local committee, and the state-wide boll weevil committee, which is headed by Dozier Pou, of Columbus, that the attendance be large.

Following the meeting here tomorrow morning, the experts will go to Cusseta in Chattahoochee county where at 2 o'clock another meeting will be held, after which the balance of the trip will be made. The experts are going into every county along the western frontier of Georgia, in which the weevil has made its appearance.

Federal Court Begins To Grind Out Justice To Many Old Offenders

Rufus Spain, of Walton county, was given the sentence yesterday of a year and a day and a fine of $100 by Judge Newman for illicit distilling. Will Stokes, a negro of Henry county, and Andy Goodman, a negro of Atlanta, were sentenced to two years and three years for tampering with the mails.

Two cases against Spain were consolidated. It developed during the trial that the defendant had been sent to the federal prison last fall for distilling. He escaped with several other prisoners and was not apprehended until last May. In the meantime, it was testified, he had returned to his old diversion.

Will Stokes was sent to the federal prison for stealing a pair of lady's shoes from a parcel post package at the Terminal station. The record showed that he had been out of the prison only one week, having served two years there for tampering with the mails two years before. Andy Goodman broke into a postoffice in Henry county and stole $4.30. He stated that he had been induced to do so by a friend who offered to accompany him around the world on the change.

MORTUARY

(All Funeral Notices Appear on Last Page.)

D. M. Touchstone, Griffin.

MURRAY HEARING TODAY

Judge Fite to Hear Injunction Cases at Cartersville.

Cartersville, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—Tomorrow three more Murray county courthouse injunction suits will be heard by Judge Fite here.

In all these Judge Fite has heretofore granted temporary restraining orders and the hearing tomorrow is to determine whether or not these shall be made permanent.

Due to the confinement in the Murray county jail the commissioners and their attorney cannot be present, and it is not known how or by whom their side will be presented.

A large representation of Chatsworth citizens will be present.

THREE HUNDRED ENROLL AT SPELMAN SEMINARY

Spelman seminary was formally opened Tuesday with an attendance of about 300 boarders and many others arriving on the trains during the night. The management announces that a record attendance is looked for and every available room is being put in condition for students.

The high price of cotton and the general improvement in all lines of business is expected to be reflected in the work of the seminary during the ensuing term.

Here Are Winners of Tickets to "The Only Girl"

Advertisers whose names appeared in the double-page advertisement in The Constitution on Sunday, which incidentally featured "The Only Girl," and in which twenty reserved seats and a box were to be given away to the opening night of the show, would have sympathized with the committee which had the task of selecting the best letters if they could have witnessed the three judges wading through the mass of letters Monday evening and Tuesday morning.

It looked like everybody in the city had noticed and read the advertisements, and that they were all bent on picking up complimentary tickets to see the best $2 show to be at the Atlanta theater this season. Some of the letters ran into poetry—and very clever poetry, too—and there were hundreds of good reasons given for patronizing the firms shown on the double page.

The list of ticket winners is shown below. The lucky writers are requested to call, or send proper order, to The Constitution business office today or tomorrow, and upon proper identification, will be presented with the tickets.

The winner of the six box seats is Mrs. W. L. Cline, 100 College avenue, Decatur. Her acrostic poem is herewith printed.

The other twenty winners of a reserved seat each for Thursday night are Miss Laura Lewis Lawhon, 62 College avenue, Decatur; Mrs. George Campbell, 275 Glenwood avenue; R. C. W. Ramspeck, Decatur; Miss Sarah Hillsman Hester, 186 South Pryor street; M. F. Crawford, 298 East Pine street; Miss Cecilia M. Willink, 403 North Jackson street; Mrs. L. P. Kinsey, 1201 Third National Bank building; Mrs. W. W. Northern, 14 West Baker street; Ellie Howard, 218 Grant street; Miss DeVoll, 32 Kirkwood avenue; Miss Emye Hill, 420 Hurt building; Mrs. W. F. Dykes, 50 Penn avenue; Mrs. Bun Wyllie, 107 Peachtree place; Griswold Parker, 44 Stonewall street; Frances Johnson, 84 Josephine street; Mrs. James D. Rhodes, 411 Euclid avenue; A. L. Hills, 64 North Forsyth street; R. D. Speer, 88 Glenwood avenue; Mrs. J. S. Dickert, 723 North Boulevard; Paul Ridgway, 40 West Peachtree place.

GEORGIA IS ATTACKED BY JUDGE SHEPPARD

New York, October 5.—The lynching of Leo M. Frank, although not designated by name, was made the basis of a portion of the charge today to the new federal grand jury by Judge William B. Sheppard, of Pensacola, Fla., who swore in the jurors and instructed them. Judge Sheppard told the grand jury that the people looked to the courts for protection and that failure to get it sometimes led to outrage.

"Not many weeks ago," Judge Sheppard said, "the county of Pensacola, Fla., was shocked by an outrage committed in a southern state. That offense against society, that outrage against the law, was the culmination of an indifference that existed in that state for more than twenty years. Lynchings and outrages against the law had become so common that little attention was paid to them. Such an outrage has startled the country and, as I say, it was only a culmination of public indifference."

Judge Sheppard is holding court in New York under the law which permits a federal judge to sit in another part of the country where dockets are congested to aid in disposing of cases.

"There are, however," continued Judge Sheppard, "wholesale indications, notwithstanding these public outrages, which shock the public conscience, that American thought has awakened to the importance of these things. In every part of the United States there is growing insistence that legal machinery be freed from those technicalities which serve no rightful purpose, but merely tend to delay and defeat the ends of justice.

"There is also on the public's part a more earnest demand that no person whose guilt is proved be suffered to escape, no matter how high or low his position may be. This is an evidence of social progress and of a cleaner public conscience. The responsibility of a busy court in this regard is inexpressibly serious and important. Their duty to the law, whose high ministers they are, demands that they vouchsafe to every one who comes before them a trial that is impartial, speedy and dispassionate. Thus only can justice reach the ends of the law."

Stolen Auto Sticks In Mire, Negro Thief Calls Off Joy Ride

If the car had not stuck in the mud near Druid Hills there is no telling where John Milligan would have gone with the auto he had stolen from Grahame Perdue, at 703 Edgewood avenue.

Milligan, a negro youth, was tried in the police court Tuesday afternoon, and, as he had broken a lock on the garage to get the car, was held in a $500 bond for burglary.

Milligan stated that he went out for a joy ride and that he had to declare the trip off when the car got mired up so he couldn't make it go.

SHOOTS HIS NEIGHBOR; DISMISSED BY JUDGE

It was all an accident when John T. Slaughter shot A. C. Shivers through the jaw just two weeks ago at the home of Shivers, so the recorder decided yesterday afternoon after hearing the evidence in the case.

Both Shivers and Slaughter were on trial. Shivers had gone to his home, 531 Courtland street, in a very ugly humor because his wife had doubted him, and he whipped out a razor and declared that he would "finish the whole bunch."

Slaughter, who rooms at the house, was present and escaped by sliding down a tree from the second story. Subsequently when he was sitting in the dark on the front porch fooling with an automatic, he shot Shivers.

After the cases were dismissed, the officer presented Shivers with the bullet that had passed through his jaw as a souvenir of the occasion.

BANKRUPTCY ACT ABUSED STATES JUDGE LAMBDIN

Macon, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—Judge W. W. Lambdin came here today and opened the United States court. It was his first appearance on the bench in this city and a big crowd of lawyers was on hand to greet him.

Judge Lambdin's charge to the grand jury, in which he warned the jurors to be on the lookout for fraudulent concealment of assets of bankrupts, was the feature of the opening of the court.

In the course of his charge, the judge referred to the awful cataclysm now in progress in Europe and expressed the hope that the final outcome will be a return to democratic rule and true Christianity. He declared that this government occupied a position of peculiar responsibility in the crisis as the upholder of the highest ideals of civic righteousness and international justice.

Leaving the war in Europe, Judge Lambdin said: "I desire to call your special attention to offenses against the national bankruptcy act, which was adopted in 1898. This was intended to secure an equal distribution of the assets of an insolvent person among his creditors.

"It so happens that this law has been somewhat abused in the practice, and that therefore there is danger of it falling into reproach among our people. I therefore call your attention to the fact that the provisions of this law make it a crime for a bankrupt to conceal from his trustee any of the property belonging to his estate in bankruptcy, or to make a false oath in any of his bankruptcy proceedings." He also referred to other possible violations of this law, declaring jurors should watch for violations.

TWO HARPER BROTHERS ENGAGE IN FATAL DUEL

Hartwell, Ga., October 5.—(Special.) In a gunfight between two brothers a few miles north of here Tom Harper was killed and Mike Harper so critically wounded that he may die. Doctors who amputated Mike Harper's leg today, however, have hopes that he will recover.

Tom Harper was beating his wife, it is reported, when his brother, Mike, interfered, and hte battle between the two ensued. Tom was wounded four times, being shot three times with a pistol and once with a shotgun.

Sheriff A. S. Johnson, of Hart county, who investigated the killing with Coroner Nixon, states that it is improbable that any action will be taken against Mike Harper if he recovers, as witnesses say he was justified in interfering to save his sister-in-law from her infuriated husband.

A horse famine in the United States is predicted by western breeders.

CITY IN LUCK; GETS CHECK FOR $40,000

Back Taxes From Georgia Railroad—Make New Finance Sheet to Reduce Deficit.

The October apportionment sheet for the city of Atlanta has been held up.

Vetoed by the mayor?

No, no!

It is all because of a $40,000 check sent to the city Tuesday by the Georgia Railroad and Banking company for back taxes.

The mayor has called the finance committee of council to meet in a special session Wednesday morning to hear the good news and to revise the October apportionment sheet to meet the unexpected windfall.

This stroke of municipal good luck came at a time when the city was facing a deficit of over $100,000, and when nearly all the departments were asking for money they could not get.

The check, which is for $40,305.17, was received by the city attorney from Attorney S. H. Sibley, of Union Point, who has been representing the city in the tax litigation.

This is how it all came about:

Suit was brought against the Louisville and Nashville railroad company and the Atlantic Coast Line for the collection of taxes due the state, county and city by the Georgia Railroad and Banking company, which had leased the road to William M. Wadley for 100 years, and Wadley re-leased it to the Louisville and Nashville. It was claimed that the lease amounted practically to a sale and the payment of taxes should be made by the lessees.

The suit was brought by the state comptroller general and the then attorney general, Judge John C. Hart. Judge Newman held that the defendants should pay on the terminal properties, and this decision was confirmed by the United States supreme court. After this decision an agreement was reached with the result that the state has been paid $20,472, with interest at 7 per cent, the city has received its share and the county of Fulton will get its part in a few days.

Great joy has been caused at the city hall and a new October apportionment sheet will now be made up and submitted to a called session of council.

RECORDER COMPLAINS OF FIGHTS IN COURT

When Attorney Lawton Nalley began to speak to a witness in the police court Tuesday afternoon in that deep voice and earnest manner which are two of his characteristics, Recorder Johnson, who has had some war-like experiences with lawyers in his court recently, called out:

"Let us have everything gentle in this case, Mr. Nalley. I don't want any more lawyers fighting in my court. I have had three or four lately, and I want to be careful."

Attorney Nalley smiled, and assured the court that he was not after any fight, and the case went on.

$500,000 SUBSCRIBED HERE FOR WAR LOAN

The Trust Company of Georgia, located in Atlanta, Tuesday announced that a loan of $500,000 had been made to the Anglo-French commission as a portion of the war loan being floated in this country by J. P. Morgan & Co., agents for the commission.

John E. Murphy, vice president of the trust company, discussing the loan, said:

"This loan is regarded by able financiers as a most excellent investment, being a prior lien on both Great Britain and France and netting the investor about 5½ per cent. Our company accepted subscriptions on exactly the same basis as the New York syndicate, without any charge for its services."

Strike Is Settled.

Cleveland, October 5.—The strike of 600 machinists at the Cleveland Automatic machine company was settled this afternoon when the men, 258 to 124, voted to accept the company's terms, which concede all demands excepting recognition of the union.

WHEN BACK ACHES TAKE VITALITAS

Nature's Most Wonderful Curative Relieves This World-Wide Complaint.

Where there is civilization people have backache. This is true around the world with people in all walks of life and the distressing complaint is ofttimes the harbinger of more serious ills; sometimes it is due to kidney trouble, sometimes to colds and sometimes it is caused by liver derangements. Whatever the reason may be, Vitalitas is a corrective and cure for it. It is a mistake to seek relief from plasters and liniments and in remedies which only temporarily soothe and do not remove the cause. Vitalitas acts constitutionally; it cleanses the system, removes toxic poisons and reinvigorates the vital organs. Among those who are finding a return to health in Vitalitas are many who have lame and cripple backs. The trouble disappears like magic under the influence of this new and marvelous nature product.

Vitalitas is a wonderful corrective for ills generally of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood. It is free of alcohol, has no added drugs, every drop of it is health giving and it is pleasant to take.

You can get a free sample drink of Vitalitas at Jacobs' Pharmacy, 23 Whitehall street, or write there for information.—(adv.)

Club Women Will Entertain Boys and Girls of Georgia

Two thousand boys and girls, members of the Boys' Corn clubs and the Girls' Canning clubs of Georgia, are confidently expected as guests of Atlanta during the Southeastern Fair and Harvest Festival in November.

The chamber of commerce in correspondence with the clubs in every district is counting upon that many, and in respcnse to the request of the chamber, the City Federation of Women's clubs has consented to act as hostesses for this army of young people, providing them with homes during their stay in Atlanta.

City Federation as Hostesses.

Mrs. Samuel B. Lumpkin, president of the city federation, announces this plan, and notifies the many thousand women composing the organization that this pledge has been made.

Arrangements are being effected for a supervisor to accompany every group of girls and of boys from every district, and these groups will be assigned homes in the same neighborhoods or on the same streets, that the supervisors may more easily reach their charges.

The hostesses, therefore, will have the responsibility of the young people only in their homes, and the history of the former visits of these same boys and girls is that they have been found most compensating guests, interesting as well as appreciative.

From 600 to 800 girls and from 1,000 to 1,200 boys may gather to report the extent of their valuable industry, to exchange ideas and to receive further instruction as to a usefulness still more substantial.

The hospitable responsibility of Atlanta women is, therefore, formidable. But their civic pride, their willingness in every patriotic movement, has long since been proven, and their answer to the present call is as prompt and will be as adequate as it has been always.

Carstairs-Towers.

London, October 5.—Lieutenant John H. Towers, United States navy, naval attache at the American embassy, and Miss Millie Carstairs, daughter of Charles Carstairs, of Philadelphia, were married today in the Savoy chapel royal.

Lieutenant Towers is a native of Georgia. He entered the naval academy from Rome, where his family still resides. Lieutenant Towers, before going to London, was attached to the aviation corps of the United States navy and won distinction by his daring flights.

To Insurance Visitors.

Mr. Bernard Faymonville, of San Francisco, president of the Fireman's Fund Insurance company, with headquarters in San Francisco, one of the largest fire insurance businesses in the world, entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at the Georgian Terrace.

His guests included a group of the company's representatives who have been in conference for several days at the Terrace. Mr. E. T. Gentry, of Atlanta; Mr. Simpson, of Boston; Mr. Marshall, of Chicago, and Mr. Frank Hawkins completed the party.

Miss Mitchell's Luncheon.

Miss Lillian Mitchell was hostess yesterday at a pretty luncheon at her home on the Boulevard, the occasion a compliment to Miss Wycliffe Wurm and her guest, Miss Emma Jordan.

Covers were laid for eight, and the circular table had artistic decoration in yellow and white. Gilt baskets were filled with golden gate roses and white cosmos, the place cards were gold and white and the silver candlesticks had yellow shades.

Miss Mitchell was a charming hostess in white, her gown of taffeta.

Musical Service.

A service of song will be given on Sunday evening, October 10, by the choir of the West End Baptist church, corner Lee and Gordon streets, assisted by Miss Anna E. Hunt, violinist; Miss Martha Bartholomew, pianist, and a chorus of trained voices.

A varied and beautiful program, consisting of solos, duets, quartets and chorus numbers, has been prepared. Mrs. Grace Lee Brown Townsend will render Gounod's famous "Ave Marie," with violin, piano and organ accompaniment. All interested are invited.

Golf Courtesy.

The Atlanta Athletic club has extended the courtesies of the East Lake golf course and clubhouse to the members of the Druid Hills Golf club during the ladies' golf tournament at Druid Hills from Thursday, October 1, to Sunday, October 17.

For Miss Blackmar.

Miss Nellie Hood Ridley will entertain at a spend-the-day party Thursday at her home in Decatur for Miss Susie Blackmar, of Columbus, who arrives today to visit Miss Louise Broyles.

Theater Party.

The groomsmen for the McKee-Nunnally wedding will give a theater party at the Atlanta Thursday night, their guests to include Miss McKee, Mr. Nunnally and the bridesmaids.

Miss Ansley's Luncheon.

Miss Mamie Ansley's luncheon on Thursday at her home in Ansley Park will be a pretty compliment to Miss Jessie McKee.

The guests will be Miss McKee, Misses Margaret McKee, Dorothy Harman, Isabel Robinson, Josephine Mobley, Lillie Peeples, Mrs. John Wheatley, Mrs. Rucker McCarty.

Trenary-Carter.

The wedding of Miss Hester Trenary and Dr. John Calhoun Carter, of LaGrange, will take place Saturday afternoon, October 9, at 3:30 o'clock at the First Methodist church, Rev. Horace DuBose officiating.

The bride will be attended by her maid of honor, Miss Olivia Carter, of Montgomery, Ala., sister of the groom. Mr. George Crossley, of LaGrange, will be best man and Messrs. Tyler Bullock and Corbin Carter will act as ushers. Little Frances Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Smith, will be flower girl. The bride will be given away by her father, Mr. W. F. Trenary. A number of out-of-town guests will attend the wedding.

Tea-Dance.

The regular weekly tea-dance will be an event of the afternoon when a number of parties will be entertained.

Miss Susie Blackmar, of Columbus, who arrives today to visit Miss Louise Broyles, will be the honor guest in Mr. Cator Woolford's party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. C. Pedder, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orme will be together. Mrs. W. T. Gentry will have ten guests and Mrs. L. H. Beck will entertain.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION HOLDS ANNUAL MEET

Seventh Annual Gathering Begins at Calvary Church Next Tuesday.

The seventh annual meeting of the Atlanta Baptist association will be held with the Calvary church (formerly Central church), beginning next Tuesday, the twelfth, at 9:30 a. m., and continuing in session three days. There will be no night sessions. The associational sermon will be preached by Rev. L. E. Barton, pastor of Jackson Hill church.

The report of the committee on Atlanta Associational matters will be presented by W. W. Gaines, on conventional missions by Rev. Frank J. Fleming, on education by Rev. A. F. O'Kelley, on Bible study and training by Rev. Charles W. Daniel, on benevolences and social work by Dr. M. G. Campbell, on order of business by M. L. Brittain.

Among the addresses to be made are the following: "Temperance and Civic Righteousness," Rev. W. T. Smith; "Veteran Ministers' Fund," Rev. W. H. Bell; "Georgia Baptist Hospital" Rev. F. C. McConnell; "Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home," Rev. John F. Purser; "Woman's Work," Rev. J. J. Crow; "Young People's Work," C. C. Wayne; "Sunday School Work," Rev. W. L. Cutts, Jr.; "Denominational Literature," Rev. A. W. Lamar; "Ministerial Education," Rev. W. M. Sentell; "Schools and Colleges," P. H. Mell; "Foreign Missions," Rev. A. H. Gordon; "Home Missions," Rev. T. T. Davis; "State Missions," Rev. Hugh S. Wallace; "Some Problems of Our Churches and What About Them," Rev. W. H. Major; "Our Atlanta Association and the Board of Missions," Rev. Charles W. Daniel; "Our Atlanta Baptist Spirit," Rev. F. C. McConnell.

BRYAN TO SPEAK AT AUDITORIUM THURSDAY NIGHT

Those who have bought season tickets to the Alkahest Lyceum course are requested to note that the lecture by W. J. Bryan at the Auditorium next Thursday evening is one of the regular numbers on the series and their season tickets will admit them to this lecture without extra expense. Mr. Bryan will take the place of one of the other lecturers announced for the course. He will arrive in Atlanta Thursday morning.

According to Manager Bridges, the sale of seats for Mr. Bryan's lecture and the season's course has proven highly gratifying, and it is expected that a capacity house will greet the former secretary of state. Both the season tickets and single admission tickets will continue on sale at the Cable Piano company until Thursday night.

Mr. Bryan's lecture has been creating quite a sensation in all the towns he has visited in the south on his present tour. In his address he tells of the present conflict in Europe and its bearing upon the life of America and pays particular attention to the economic and industrial aspect of the war's effect upon the United States. Long known as a staunch believer in universal peace and eternally against every phase of militarism, his ideas will doubtless prove quite interesting to his audience here.

His lecture will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock and a musical prelude will be furnished by some local orchestra or band beginning at 8 o'clock.

G. H. HASTINGS TELLS ATLANTA ROTARIANS WHAT CLUB TEACHES

The definition of "Rotarianism," in which he pronounced it co-operation, loyalty, faith and public-spiritedness, was given by G. H. Hastings in an interesting address before the Rotary club at its regular meeting in the main dining room of the Hotel Ansley yesterday at noon.

Mr. Hastings also recited many interesting sights and observations upon his recent trip to the International Rotary convention in San Francisco, and urged that every Rotarian who could possibly do so attend the next annual meet in Cincinnati next year.

Tuesday's meeting was one of the biggest in recent months. The huge cafe was completely filled with diners.

CANNING CLUB GIRLS AND CORN CLUB BOYS COMING TO ATLANTA

To prepare for entertainment in the homes of Atlantans the 1,500 boys and girls of the corn and canning clubs who will be here for the fair at Lakewood, Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs, has called a meeting of the body for Friday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce building. The chamber has tendered the federation the use of a room as headquarters for the campaign. It is believed that there will be in attendance at the fair fully 1,000 boys and 500 girls.

CONSTRUCTION WORK ON FAIR PARK DRIVE BEGINS AT LAKEWOOD

The work of constructing Fair Park drive, the new boulevard which is to lead to the main entrance of the Southeastern Fair grounds, began yesterday, and will be rushed to completion. The boulevard is being cut between the Lakewood Park property and the Solomon Haas estate and will extend from Lakewood avenue to South Pryor street.

This boulevard will form the public way for all the crowds gaining admittance to the fair grounds. The street car tracks extending up Lakewood avenue will approach the fair grounds by Fair Park drive and the sewer, which is being laid on Jonesboro road, will be extended this way.

"When completed this will be a beautiful drive, adequate in every way to handle the large crowds," said R. M. Striplin, manager of the fair. "The work of getting the boulevard in shape will be rushed with all possible speed and absolutely finished before the opening of the cattle and corn show.

Gentry Brothers' Show, An Atlanta Favorite, To Return Next Week

Gentry Brothers' trained animal shows will be the attraction under canvas in Atlanta next week. The shows will arrive Sunday morning, and Monday and Tuesday will present performances at 2 and 8 o'clock. Their home here will be the Jackson street show grounds. After unloading the trains Sunday no work except that necessary to insure comfort to the animals will be done.

Sunday is bath day with the trained animals, and every dog and pony will receive his weekly plunge in soap suds and warm water. Monday and Tuesday morning there will be a street parade. The routes, however, have not as yet been laid out.

EMORY FOUNDERS' CLUB LUNCHEON OCTOBER 7

President P. S. Arkwright, of the Emory University Founders' club, has sent out notices to members announcing that the luncheon to be given on October 7 at the Chamber of Commerce building will be complimentary to the Founders' club. He adds that the notice previously sent out is amended so that all reference to the cost of the luncheon is struck out.

SOCIETY

At the Capital City Club.

The usual Monday night dinner-dance was an enjoyable event at the Capital City club.

Among those dancing were: Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Nunnally, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kennedy, Mr. V. A. Bachelor, Mrs. Sarah D. Grant of New Orleans, Mr. Charles Trabue, Mrs. E. K. Van Winkle, Mrs. J. E. Hayes, Mr. Albert Howell, Mr. Charles Ryan, Mr. Madison Bell, Mr. Jacob Levin, Mr. J. D. Robinson, Mr. George Graves, Mr. and Mrs. A. Redding, Mr. S. R. Redding, Mr. J. M. Moore, Mr. John Clarke, Dr. and Mrs. Atchison, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Johnson, Mr. Gus Ryan, Mr. H. M. Atkinson, Colonel D. W. Rountree, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Shivers, Mr. John Hardisty, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Palmer, Mr. Winter Alfriend, Miss Marion Atchison, Mr. John A. Brice, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Jr., Mr. Henry Kennedy, Mr. Alf Priddy, Miss Isabel Kuhrt, Miss Alline Fielder, Dr. J. V. Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnwell, Miss Marie Dinkins, Miss Maud Perkins, Mr. Joe Brown Connally, Mr. J. W. Goldsmith, Mr. Carl Fort, Mr. Fred McGonigal, Mr. Lynn Werner, Mr. Robert Ryan and Mr. Eugene Haynes.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Darby will entertain at a dinner-dance Friday evening at Druid Hills Golf club in celebration of their wedding anniversary.

There will be thirty guests.

Suffrage School.

The next session of the suffrage school will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the parlors of the Ansley hotel. Mrs. Rose M. Ashby will give the first of a series of lectures she has arranged to deliver before the school. Mrs. Ashby's subject will be "Government."

James P. Faulkner, secretary of the Raoul Foundation board, will speak on "Health by Indirection."

Mrs. Amelia R. Woodall, president of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association, has arranged further interesting speeches for the session.

A cordial invitation to attend is extended to everyone interested.

For Mrs. Grant.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hill entertained thirty guests last evening at a delightful informal dance at their home on Piedmont avenue for Mrs. Sarah D. Grant, of New Orleans, who, after spending several months with them, leaves Friday for a visit in LaGrange before returning home. A basket of pink roses was the centerpiece. Pink roses formed artistic decoration through the rooms and a basket of pink roses was in the center of the table in the dining room. Mints and other color details of the pretty table were pink.

Mrs. Hill wore a becoming gown of turquoise blue taffeta trimmed in gold lace and Mrs. Grant's gown was of rose-colored velvet and chiffon of the same shade.

W. C. T. U.

The Atlanta Frances Willard Woman's Christian Temperance union will hold its regular session Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Sunday school room of Trinity church. Delegates must be elected to the state convention and we must decide if we will have Mrs. Mitchener, of Kansas, to speak Sunday, October 31, in Atlanta, and at what place.

A full attendance of the members is desired. Visitors are always cordially welcomed.

MEETINGS

The regular meeting of the Jubilee Union of Mission Workers, of which Mrs. John A. Perdue is president, will be held at All Saints' Episcopal church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children will be held today, October 6, at 10:30 o'clock at the Georgian Terrace. All interested are urged to attend.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps of the Grand Army of the Republic will be held Thursday, October 7, at 3:30 p. m. at the residence of Mrs. Albert P. Wood, 357 Euclid avenue, Inman Park.

The executive board of the City Federation of Women's clubs will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the chamber of commerce. The executive board includes the presidents of all the federated clubs and the chairmen of standing committees.

The regular monthly meeting of the executive board of Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., will be held at the University club, 17 West Cain street, this morning at 10 o'clock.

The Music Study club will hold its weekly meeting this morning at Phillips & Crew's. Choral work will be one of the first activities of the organization and a monthly concert will be a feature, the concert to take place the last Wednesday in each month.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICA ELECT OFFICERS TODAY

Four Hundred Delegates in Atlanta From 39 States. Four-Day Session.

The Daughters of America will elect their national officers today. They are in session at the Hotel Ansley.

Mrs. Maude A. Gilbert, vice chancellor of the state organization, was honored Tuesday when nominated without opposition as chairman of the committee on publicity.

This convention of the national organization, which is an auxiliary of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, a patriotic fraternity for the advancement of American principles, has been declared by Charles H. Miller, assistant editor of laws of the federal state department at Washington, as the most successful convention ever held.

There are over 400 representatives of the national order in Atlanta, including 156 delegates who represent the councils of 39 different states.

The North Atlanta council, No. 7, will entertain the visitors with a banquet tonight. Atlanta council, No. 2, will entertain with an automobile ride over the city and neighboring points of interests on Thursday afternoon when the convention will come to a close.

The convention opened Tuesday morning with addresses of welcome by Fred Houser, who spoke in Governor Harris' place, the governor being unable to attend. Mayor Woodward welcomed the delegates to Atlanta on the part of the city. Dr. H. H. Hall also spoke.

Following the opening exercises, the convention went into executive session.

The Smith-Burnett bill, which has passed congress five times and been vetoed each time, will again be given the indorsement of the Daughters of America. The Junior Order fostered this proposed national legislation, which is aimed to keep ignorant immigrants from coming into America.

Other matters of importance bearing on the immigration question will be brought up before today's session. The question of free public schools and compulsory education will also be discussed.

Mrs. Dick, of Ohio, former national councilor, introduced a resolution Tuesday to have the national convention biennially after the year 1916. Wheeling, West Va., has been chosen as the convention city for 1916.

However, Mrs. Dick's resolution will have to be ratified by two-thirds of the states before it can become effective.

Atlanta Ad Men's Club Is Working for Festival And Georgia State Fair

Proof of the fact that the Atlanta Ad club is one of the busiest of the city's institutions is shown in the fact that while it is endeavoring to keep track of its own business affairs and carry them out in the order of all well operated organizations, it is lending aid to two of the state's biggest projects.

Besides Agricultural day, which the Ad club has fathered and which the Ad men propose to make the most spectacular of the Harvest festival, the club is also lending a helping hand to the proposed state fair in Macon, and will entertain a delegation from that city at today's meeting in the Hotel Ansley.

The following telegram was dispatched by President Julian Boehm to substantiate a verbal invitation to the Macon delegation:

"Julius Otto, president Georgia State Fair association, Macon, Ga.: We are counting on a large delegation headed by yourself to be with us at luncheon Thursday at 1 o'clock p. m. to boost Georgia State fair.

(Signed) "JULIAN V. BOEHM."

While the meeting is in progress, a delegation headed by W. H. Smith and composed of Harry Goodhart and Fred Lewis will be in Winder, Barrow county, urging citizens of that community to have a float in the big Agricultural day parade.

SPALDING COUNTY FAIR TO BEGIN OCTOBER 25

Griffin, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—The Griffin and Spalding County fair will be held October 23-30. The fair association is planning to have the best fair Griffin has ever had, and there will be an unusually large number of exhibits of various kinds.

HOLSTEIN COWS' MILK FOR TUBERCULOSIS.

HOLSTEIN MILK Health Vitality Nutrition REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

W. C. Huntington, M. D., Howell, Mich., says: "There is one class of case for which I consider Holstein Milk especially adapted and that is Tuberculosis. These patients have weak digestion and usually cannot manage much free fat. The relatively high proportion of protein and carbohydrates with the very complete emulsification of the fat in the Holstein Milk makes it ideal for these patients."

All physicians, who, for any reason, have made a study of milk, agree that Holstein Cows' Milk is the best possible milk for infants, invalids and general family use.

Goin' It Blindly

Lots of people do that in buying goods.

Some are dealers—some are consumers.

They just go it blindly, so to write—perhaps THOUGHTLESSLY would be a better word.

In the case of dealers—some of them—they buy their goods from far-off markets.

They either give their orders to a representative or send them by mail.

They never see the goods until they are unpacked.

They frequently have to contend with delays in shipment.

They have heavy freight bills to pay.

Then, if there's anything wrong, and there's adjusting to be done, there comes another delay—there's wiring and writing and wrangling—and maybe they are finally satisfied, and maybe they ain't.

But at any rate, their money—or the consumers' money, for here's where the consumer comes in—goes away off yonder somewhere to pay the bill.

That money is never circulated again in the community where the goods are consumed.

That's the consumers' money, after all. It's money he's earned right here at home, and he hasn't stopped to figure, perhaps, that it's going hundreds of miles away to pay for labor used in—

Making stoves, or Packing meats, or Making shoes, or
Manufacturing pickles, jellies and jams, or Grinding wheat, or Making shirts, or
Baking biscuits and crackers.

He's buying blindly—or THOUGHTLESSLY—as we said before, because he hasn't stopped to consider that right here under his nose—right in his own community—that his neighbor (or maybe several of them) is getting his pay envelope from one of our local manufacturers who make just as good goods—at no greater price—than those he has bought with an imported label.

If he bought more of the goods made at home he would help to create employment for more people—perhaps that neighbor who is looking for work could be given a job.

But the consumer hasn't stopped to think—he's thoughtless—just buying blindly.

And, then, there's the satisfaction to the retailer when he patronizes home factories.

These manufacturers are big contributors to the development of a community.

They employ our home people.

The money the retailer pays them goes right back into the hands of home people with which to buy clothes, and groceries, and pay house rent—and school the children.

Then, it's so much easier and quicker to get the goods of home manufacturers. And if there's anything wrong—anything misunderstood about the order—there's the telephone—or you can step around to see them—so easy to adjust matters with home folks.

If you are a retailer carry home-made goods.

If you are a consumer insist upon the goods made at home.

These manufacturers will serve you—and please you.

COOPER TO PROVE THEORIES IN CITY; AT JACOBS' TODAY

Will Give Local People Benefit of Exhaustive Studies—Over a Million Bottles of Tanlac Sold in Nine Months.

L. T. Cooper, the man who electrified the larger cities with his philanthrophy, health theories and celebrated medicine, Tanlac, will meet the Atlanta public today at the main store of the Jacobs Pharmacy Company, on Marietta street, between the hours of 10 and 12 in the morning and from 3 to 5 in the afternoon.

Mr. Cooper was seen to excellent advantage at the Piedmont yesterday afternoon, and to a group of friends stated that the medicinal elements and properties which go to make up his medicine, Tanlac, come from many remote sections of the globe—the Alps, the Appenines, the Pyrenees, Russian Asia, Jamaica, Brazil, the West Indies, mountainous states near the Rocky Mountains, India, Mexico and Peru—were among the many points he mentioned as furnishing the ingredients for the "Premier Preparation."

In his principal laboratory the roots, herbs and barks in their rough state are assembled under the personal direction of a native German chemist of note, Herr Jos von Trimbach, and skillfully made to obtain of the high state of efficiency that is shown by the uniform preparation Tanlac.

In sterilized bottles, made expressly for the purpose, Tanlac is placed, labeled, inspected and then shipped out for the world where the demand requires.

He then made the truly remarkable statement that over one million (1,000,000) bottles of Tanlac had been sold the first nine months after placing it on the market, establishing beyond question a world's record in the history of medicine.

Mr. Cooper, having made an exhaustive study of catarrhal affections, was asked to express himself on this subject. He said:

"Most of the so-called stomach, liver and kidney troubles are due almost entirely to a catarrhal inflammation of those organs, and it is believed that Tanlac is the first actually direct specific therefor.

"Catarrh of the stomach, liver and kidneys," he continued, "is the most frequent cause of dyspepsia and Bright's disease, and a catarrhal condition of the nose and throat lead to inevitable deafness. Frequently the lungs become diseased by the extension of the catarrhal inflammation by way of the bronchial tubes to the lung substance. The mental and physical state of the chronic catarrh sufferers is indeed very unfortunate.

"Scores of your best people are now testifying that Tanlac has overcome this condition in its most obstinate stages, and the preparation, therefore, must be, as I have always contended, the one great far-reaching, disease-banishing, health-compelling remedy of the age.

"The success that the preparation has achieved in the larger cities of the country, and especially in your neighboring cities—Nashville, Louisville, Birmingham, Chattanooga and Knoxville—is ample evidence that my confidence in Tanlac has been well placed."

When told that approximately 1,000 bottles of Tanlac had been sold in Atlanta within the first ten days after its introduction here, Mr. Cooper said:

"I am indeed gratified to hear that Tanlac has been so enthusiastically received in your city, and I do not hesitate to make the prediction that it will prove just as successful here as in the cities mentioned.

WELL, STRONG AND HEALTHY

Doctor Recommended Cardui To Build Up Her Strength. Said It Was a Fine Medicine.

Mandarin, Fla.—"About 18 years ago, after the birth of my child," writes Madame C. Billard, of this place, "I was in a very low and run-down state of health, and was very weak. Dr.——— then of——— . . . recommended that I take Cardui. He was treating me, and he told me to take it to build up my strength. Said it was a fine medicine. I took 3 bottles and it built me up. After the use of 2 I was greatly improved in flesh, strength and health; in fact, was entirely well, but took one more bottle to be sure I'd taken enough. I was able to do my work and was a well, strong woman.

I highly recommend it as a tonic. I have never had bad health since, have been well and strong and healthy ever since."

Cardui, the woman's tonic, is a medicine prepared from vegetable, medicinal ingredients, which have been found to exert a tonic, building influence.

For over 40 years this medicine has been used by the women of this country, and the thousands of letters, which come to us every year, are proof of its real therapeutic, beneficial medicinal value.

If you are in need of a remedy for womanly ills, take Cardui, the woman's tonic. For sale by all druggists.

MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN IN GRIFFIN BEGINS

Griffin, Ga., October 5.—(Special.)—Griffin's municipal campaign has opened. So far there are four candidates out for aldermen—E. S. McDowell, E. P. Edwards, J. R. Johnson and J. G. Huckaby. The election will be held in December, but a primary will be called in the meantime by the city executive committee.

AT THE THEATERS

"Damaged Goods."

(At the Atlanta.)

This afternoon a matinee will be given of the great sociological drama, "Damaged Goods," which has been accorded a fine reception at the Atlanta the past two nights. This great play, which has such a powerful message, is being given by an excellent company, and those who are serious-minded will find it a rare treat. It is a serious play given in a serious vein, but it is entertaining and gripping in its interest. The final performance will be played tonight.

"The Only Girl."

(At the Atlanta.)

Seats are now selling for the engagement of "The Only Girl," which will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. This is the first big musical play of the season, and it is being given by a company of real $2 class, selected by Joe Weber personally. The play is one of the real treats of the year, and the company is all that could be desired. Already many important social parties have been announced for the attraction, and others are being made up. The audience Thursday night will be especially notable from a social standard, owing to the wedding entertainment parties and others arranged. A matinee will be played Saturday.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

There is a variety of pleasing attractions on the Forsyth bill this week, from the big musical revue headed by Sophye Barnard and Lou Anger to clever character dancing by Connor and Foley.

Music lovers, both of popular and classical selections, will enjoy the playing of Roxy La Rocca on his giant harp, presented to him by the king of Italy. Those who delight in whirlwind slapstick comedy will laugh heartily at the antics of Malvern's Comiques. There is good entertainment in Adelaide Boothby's songs and interpretations; both humor and pathos in the little playlet, "His Wife's Mother," presented by Emmet Devoy and company.

And everybody, young and old, will appreciate the breezy comedy and tuneful songs and pretty girls of "Safety First," the novelty girly-girly show in which such stars as Sophye Barnard, Lou Anger, Charles McNaughton and others appear.

"The Master of the House."

(At the Strand.)

"The Master of the House" is done in motion pictures by the newly formed Equitable Motion Pictures corporation, and is the vehicle for the screen debut of the famous dramatic actor, Julius Steger. It will be presented at the Strand theater today and Thursday.

"The Master of the House" is a dramatic production which ran for an entire season at the Maxine Elliott theater in New York, and was the means of elevating Julius Steger to legitimate stardom.

The story of "The Master of the House" is one of those heart-interest affairs that come before the public about once in a decade. Sustained interest, powerful situations and the exceptional plot combines to make it more vivid, more real and more truthful than truth itself.

This is the second release of the new Equitable Motion Pictures corporation, who are responsible for "Trilby." In addition to Mr. Steger, a cast of contemporary Broadway players appear.

A new electric lamp socket has a lock and key feature to prevent surreptitious removal of the bulb.

FESTIVAL WORKERS TO MEET AT NOON

Subscription Committees to Report to Finance Committee at Ansley Hotel—Rotary Club Busy.

All committees appointed to secure finances for the Harvest Festival will lunch today at the Ansley hotel as the guests of the finance committee and make report of their work.

Those who have not subscribed or have not been seen by any member of the various committees, and who are willing to aid in this undertaking, are urged to telephone their subscription before 12 o'clock to the festival headquarters in order that it may be reported at the finance committee luncheon.

All the committees which have been seen report an unusually favorable reception on the part of the public.

Voluntary Contributions.

One of the most encouraging features of the canvass for funds since Monday has been the great number of voluntary contributions made to the various committees and sent in to the headquarters of the festival. One man who had made a small subscription voluntarily sent in word to more than double his subscription, stating that after thinking the matter over, he felt he had not done his part.

No reports were received from any committee after noon on yesterday, but a few committees reporting after about a two hours' canvass before noon reported around $1,000 additional subscriptions, making the total a little above $9,000.

Woman's Day Arranged.

November 16, which has been set aside as Woman's day of the festival, promises to be the "red letter" day in the history of Georgia's women.

National co-operation has been assured the suffrage workers of Georgia, and the part that the suffragettes will play in the day's program will be epoch-making, it is predicted.

It so happens that Mrs. M'dill McCormick, chairman of the congressional committee of the National American Woman's suffrage association, has proclaimed November 16 as National Suffrage day.

A meeting has been held by the committee of the Georgia Woman's suffrage association to plan a campaign for the suffragette participation in the harvest festival.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president, and the following women were appointed in their respective centers to enlist their home forces in the day's program:

Mrs. William Felton, Cartersville; Mrs. Madeline J. S. Wyley, Rome; Mrs. H. H. Shackleton, Rome; Mrs. Mary Harris Armor, Macon; Mrs. E. T. Martin, Macon; Miss Mildred Hicks, Bainbridge; Miss Olive Hardwick, Conyers; Mrs. W. Y. Atkinson, Newnan; Mrs. Ben Hill Fudge, Colquitt; Miss S. A. Dresham, Waynesboro; Dr. S. Crouch Rose, Brunswick; Mrs. Jennie Hart Sibley, Union Point; Mrs. L. W. Walker, Hawkinsville, and Mrs. W. B. Carraker, Warrenton.

Each of these points will send delegations to Atlanta on Woman's day. Individual plans will be made by each branch organization.

Rotary Club at Work.

The Rotary club yesterday appointed J. C. Lewis chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the gigantic ball that is to be held by the Rotarians during the festival at the Auditorium-Armory. Mr. Lewis will be given a free hand to select his own committeemen, and will choose them from the pick of the Rotary entertainers.

The success of the Rotary undertaking is assured. Some of the most stupendous stunts of entertainment that have been staged in the city's history have been under the direction of the Atlanta Rotary club. That the festival ball will excel any of the organization's former achievements is promised by all members of the club.

STEAMER ATLANTA LIMPING TO PORT AFTER ACCIDENT

Savannah, Ga., October 5.—Following an accident to her machinery while off the North Carolina coast early today, the passenger steamer City of Atlanta, of the Ocean Steamship company's fleet, which sailed Saturday from Boston, tonight is proceeding to this port under greatly reduced speed. The nature and extent of the accident was not disclosed in a brief wireless message received early tonight by the port agent of the line from Captain Garfield, who said he expected to arrive about noon tomorrow, approximately eighteen hours late.

Reports that the steamer was in distress first reached here about noon today when a relative of one of the passengers said he had received a wireless message to that effect and stating that the steamer was then 104 miles south of Cape Hatteras. From that time until tonight the company officials were unable to "raise" the City of Atlanta by radio. Upon receipt of the captain's message, the text of which they did not make public, they said there was no reason to be alarmed for the vessel's safety.

SHELLMAN OIL MILLS DAMAGED BY FLAMES

Shellman, Ga., October 5.—(Special.) Fire which originated in the large storage room of the Shellman Oil mills here at 1 o'cock this morning completely destroyed this building, together with one hundred tons of coton seed oil and thirty bales of linters, entailing a loss of several thousand dollars, fully covered by insurance. By the early arrival of the volunteer department the flames were confined to the storage house and the main building and machinery was only slightly damaged.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

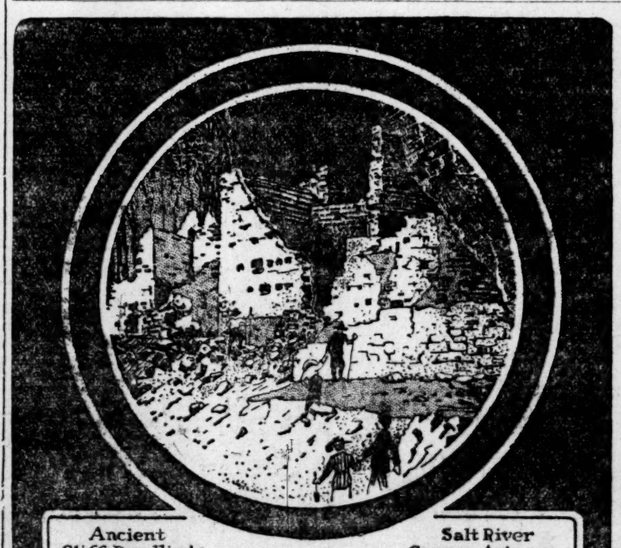

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Be On Your Guard Woodwardism Is the Issue

TO THE CITIZENS OF ATLANTA:

In the city white primary last Thursday there were three candidates for aldermen from the Fifth ward, to-wit: Mr. C. R. Garner, Mr. W. E. Besser, and myself. The rules of the primary require a majority to nominate, and in case more than two candidates are running and neither receives a majority, then the rules require a run-over between the two candidates leading the ticket. Neither of us received a majority in the primary, and there is now a run-over, as required by the rules, between Mr. Besser and myself. You will make your choice between us on next Tuesday, October 12. Mr. Garner is actively supporting me.

Inasmuch as Mr. Besser is representing himself as a "business man," and basing his chief claim to election on this ground, and claiming the support of the business element of the community, it is proper to examine his business record.

Examination discloses the fact that a few years ago Mr. Besser VOLUNTARILY went in bankruptcy with liabilities amounting to several hundreds of dollars and assets scheduled at $50 or thereabouts. Subsequently his brother-in-law engaged in the same line of business (groceries) and he also VOLUNTARILY went in bankruptcy, with Mr. Besser as THE LARGEST SINGLE CREDITOR, holding a promissory note for approximately one-fifth of the total liabilities.

Good men are often FORCED into bankruptcy by circumstances beyond their control, and it is not necessarily to their discredit. But when a VOLUNTARY BANKRUPT lays claim to your support on the ground of high business qualifications, it is proper for you to know the facts before you elect him to participate in the annual expenditure of $6,000,000 of your money, and the handling of the proposed bond issue of $3,500.000.

These facts, however, are somewhat incidental; and I mention them only because of the EMPHASIS Mr. Besser is laying on his BUSINESS RECORD.

Between Mr. Besser and myself there is a deeper and a more vital issue:

WOODWARDISM.

Mr. Besser is the choice of Mayor Woodward. He is subject to the mayor's influence, and has the support of certain elements that look to the mayor FOR PROTECTION. If elected alderman, Mr. Besser will be under the mayor's dictation.

The mayor is against me.

I opposed, as a councilman, his attempt to strike from the budget the balance due on the crematory. If the mayor had HAD HIS WAY, the city would have been without an appropriation to pay the balance due in the event of a subsequent court decision requiring such a payment.

I opposed the mayor, as a member of the police board, in his attempt TO KICK OUT CHIEF BEAVERS.

I have opposed him on various other issues where the GOOD NAME OF ATLANTA was at stake.

I am not against the mayor. I am against a good many of the things he stands for and advocates. I am, in short, AGAINST WOODWARDISM. Therefore the mayor opposes me and wants a man AFTER HIS OWN HEART to represent the Fifth ward as alderman.

For thirty-two years continuously I have been connected with the Continental Gin Company. I represented the Fifth ward four years as a councilman. Subsequently I was elected a member of the police board. My record, personally and officially, is an open book. If it will not stand the test of examination, then I do not ask you to vote for me.

Atlanta has a magnificent future, but she cannot go ahead to the limit of her possibilities if HELD BACK by her city government. She cannot go ahead with a city government that repudiates contracts. She cannot go ahead with a city government that punishes officials for enforcing the law. She cannot go ahead with a city government that PROTECTS THE UNDERWORLD. She cannot go ahead with a city government that is everlastingly engaged in a Kilkenny cat fight.

You are presented, in this run-over primary, with an opportunity to make a choice between two types of city officials, between two types of city government.

You might as well go on record in this primary as in any other election. The sooner you MAKE PLAIN the type of city official you want, and the type of city government you want, the sooner Atlanta will QUIT MARKING TIME IN MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS AND GO FORWARD.

Respectfully,

JOHN D. SISSON

IT'S UP TO ALEXANDER, SAYS FULLERTON

Doping the World Series
X.--THE PITCHERS
With Hugh S. Fullerton

	Value in Offense.	Value in Defense.	Value in Season.	Value in Series.
Boston Corps..	670	736	748	752
Philly Corps..	534	619	683	774

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Here is the strangest, weirdest bit of doping I ever have encountered.

If you took the figures and discovered that the Boston Red Sox have five of the leading pitchers of the American league and four second string men, any one of whom is above the average in ability, if you discovered that among these five stars four hit .279, .286, .308 and .320 and help win their games; if you discovered that three of these pitchers are great fielders and liable to help the infield, what would you think?

Next, if you found that the opposing staff consisted of one great pitcher, an erratic, uncertain genius, a fair second-rater, and four just fair pitchers, you'd begin to feel sorry for that club. Then, if you remembered that the club with the strong pitchers has a stronger hitting and a stronger fielding team to back them up, and that there is not much difference in the catching, you'd say, "Shucks, the Phillies haven't a chance." And then if you realized that the American league has much stronger batters than the National you'd give it up and concede Boston the flag.

Right here is where the oddity of the American game and the uncertainty of a world's series arises.

A man with a sharp, strong ice pick can cut just as much ice as can the fellow with five strong sharp ice picks unless his one pick wears out.

Season v. Series.

If the Phillies and Red Sox were to play twenty-two games a season in the same league the Red Sox would beat them two-thirds or more of those games. But whether the Red Sox can beat them four out of seven games in this series is another matter.

Boston's pitching staff figures 130 points better in attacking strength, more than 100 points in defensive strength and 65 points in team strength for a regular season. But for the purposes of this series the Philadelphia pitching staff is better.

There are two problems—will Moran know how to use his one great ice pick, and will that ice pick break?

I can answer the first question. Moran knows exactly what he is up against. He knows exactly what he must do—and he is going to try to do it. If that grand old ice pick, Grover Cleveland Alexander, doesn't dull at the point, bend or break, Moran is likely to cut the ice.

Moran has no choice as to his plan of campaign. If he losses this series it will be because the material was not good enough or because the good material was not strong enough to stand the strain. If Carrigan loses it will be because he has too much good material and either chooses wrong or cannot use it all at once.

Moran's plan of battle is this: He will open with Alexander. Now, "Alex" is the best pitcher in this series, and, this season, the best in the world. He is dog-tired. He has been through a season of terrific strain and has pitched over 100 innings more than any other pitcher in his league. His great strength has stood the strain well and Moran has saved him as much as possible, especially during the closing weeks of the season.

Moran's struggle for the final month has not been so much to cinch the National league pennant as it has been to win with his mediocre pitchers and save Alexander for the series. Alexander needed rest, and Moran strove to get it for him, often taking chances of losing games in order not to wear down his best bet.

"Alex's" Big Task.

"Alex" has had some rest, whether sufficient or not, we cannot tell. He thinks it is. Moran thinks it is. For Alexander is going to essay the greatest task any pitcher save Mathewson ever tried. He is going to pitch practically this entire series and face Carrigan's entire squad, which is proclaimed the greatest pitching staff of the decade.

Alexander is not doing this through any desire to make a hero of himself, but to win this series for his team.

Moran will start "Alex" the first game. Meantime, he has another trump card to play. On his staff is Eppa Jeptha Rixey, a strange and peculiar genius. When this fellow Rixey is right no ball team in the world is licensed to hit him or beat him. He is not strong and he needs considerable rest. He has not pitched much good ball this season and has contributed very little to the victory of the Phillies. Moran has carefully preped this fellow, gotten him all ready for the test, and in the second game Eppa Jeptha is to step out and see if he is right. If he happens to have one of his big days, that game either is a tie or the Phillies will win. If he is not right, then he'll be out of there, with Mayer finishing up a defeat. Moran may decide Rixey is not right on the second day and then Alexander will pitch.

On the third day Alexander will be back on the slab, provided he does not work the second. If he has won his first game, if Rixey wins the second and "Alex" wins the third, Alexander will be back there the fourth day trying to finish up the series with four straight victories. If the Phillies win two out of the first three, Moran will send Chalmers into the fourth game. But if they have lost two of the first three or three of them, then Alexander will be on that slab, and from that on Alexander will do all the pitching.

It seems a superhuman task, but Alexander, in the opinion of a lot of wise baseball men, is equal to that task.

Carrigan's Big Five.

Alexander is the best of the pitchers, but Carrigan has five men who are better than Moran's second pitcher, Wood, Shore, Ruth, Foster and Leonard, all are better pitchers than any man on Moran's staff except Alexander.

Carrigan also has Gregg, Ray, Collines, Pennock and Mays, any one of whom would be considered a star on Moran's corps. Moran has Mayer, Demaree and McQuillan—the last two "slippers" who have gone way back and are preparing to be seated—and Ben Tincup, who is crippled.

Of course, Carrigan has all the chance in the world to be blamed for making mistakes in his selection of pitchers. He has not a chance to evade that charge. If he loses a game, any pitcher he chooses is the wrong one. Yet it is hard to see how he could shut his eyes and touch any one if five men and make a mistake.

The remarkable attacking strength of his pitchers is another element that enters into this contest. He has the hardest hitting pitching corps in the country, and Wood, Ruth, Foster or Leonard is likely to break up a game by hitting—all being close to or above .300 hitters.

I figure the Phillies to hit better against Wood and Foster than against the others of the five, and not to hit much against any of them.

The closer one figures each batter against each pitcher, the lighter hitting the series looks. The only chance for hitting, it would seem, is for Alexander to tire in the later games, or for Ruth to get wild and have to slow down to get control.

I had figured Chalmers practically out of this series, but in his later games this season he has pitched so well that Moran undoubtedly will use him in case there is a chance to do so and not lose the series itself. If he gets two games the advantage, at any time, he will use Chalmers and rest "Alex" for further strain.

The Sunday that will intervene between the opening and the next two games helps Alexander immensely, and a day of rain during the series would be that much gain for him.

I am figuring that Carrigan will use his pitchers practically as he did in the decisive series against Detroit.

Alexander v. Wood.

It certainly will be Alexander and Wood for the starter, followed by Rixey and Leonard. After that conditions will rule the selection of pitchers and may compel either manager to alter his plans. Carrigan can alter plans easily, but Moran has little choice.

A great element in the strength of the Red Sox, you will find, lies in their reserve power. Carrigan need not fear to use pitchers. He can take out men frequently, use pinch hitters, and make many changes without appreciably altering the team strength of his pitching staff. This does not amount to so much in actual play as it does in wearing out men. Many men would rather pitch a game than to keep warmed up ready to pitch during a game. They say they pitch more in warming up than when on the slab. Moran dare not warm up Alexander or Rixey to act as rescuers. He must use Demaree, McQuillian and Mayer as his warm-up squad, and if they get in it will be butchery in all probability. Demaree's slow floaters would be soft for the Red Sox and McQuillian no longer is a good pitcher. Mayer is better but is not living up to the promise he gave when he broke in.

That is the situation. You cannot make it different, and the figures prove up perfectly.

Tomorrow we will make the final study of the teams, before getting down to the last compilation—which is to see how these figures work out into the box scores. We will consider the managers tomorrow, and under the head of managers we place a value upon the team work, the inside play, the system of attack, the choice of pitchers, etc. It may not all be due the managers, but they are responsible and must take either the praise or the blame.

TWO TEAMS CLOSE SEASONS TODAY

Phillies Play Brooklyn and the Red Sox Battle With New York—Thursday's Games Called Off.

New York, October 5.—The National league champions will close their regular season by playing a double-header with Brooklyn tomorrow, Wednesday being an off day with the new champions, but the scheduled game of Thursday and the postponed game of today will be played off in this double-header.

Every player eligible for participation in the series will play in this double-header as a final tuning up in actual combat before the big series starts.

While the National league champions are thus engaged, the American league pennant winners will also stage a double-header with the New York Americans and are in hope of cancelling the final scheduled game between the two teams on Thursday. If they can do so they will arrive in Philadelphia and work out on Shibe Field Thursday.

Fears that Killifer, the Phillies' star catcher, who has been out of the game nursing an injured shoulder, would not be able to take part in the stellar championship, were partly set at rest last night by the announcement that he probably will be in shape for the first game. Killifer, who is considered by many to be the best maskman of the National league, has been under the care of a New York specialist for several weeks.

There will be no trouble between the Phillies and Red Sox over a place for the visiting club to practice, such as occurred between Managers Stallings and Mack last year. While in New York yesterday Manager Pat Moran had a talk with Bill Carrigan, manager of the Sox, and offered the use of the Phillies' park for practice at any time the team came to Philadelphia.

Carrigan told Moran that both he and his players would be pleased to practice on the Phillies' field if they arrived in Philadelphia in time, but that they had no thought of asking the privilege, for they had expected to put in the final day tuning up at Shibe park.

FIRST ROUND PLAYED IN WOMEN'S TOURNEY

Fair Golfers Brave Drizzling Rain at Ansley Park—Second Round Today.

Playing in a drizzling rain, which fell at intervals during the day, the women golfers entered in the Ansley Park tourney yesterday completed the first round of the tourney now in progress. Only three matches were defaulted.

The second round of this tourney will be completed today, as will the first round of the defeated eight of the first flight. The tourney will come to a close on Friday, the finals being played then.

All matches are for nine holes, handicaps applying in all matches.

The result of all first-round matches is:

First Flight.

Mrs. T. T. Williams defeated Miss E. Erskine, 5-4.
Mrs. L. C. Hopkins defeated Mrs. E. P. Ansley, 3-1.
Miss Margret Taylor defeated Mrs. Michael Taylor, 1 up.
Mrs. C. A. Collier defeated Mrs. M. M. Carlin, 5-3.
Mrs. Guy King defeated Mrs. Logan Bleckley, 4-3.
Mrs. L. P. Stallings defeated Mrs. L. H. Hines, 3-1.
Mrs. K. R. Armstrong defeated Miss Katherine Bleckley.
Mrs. Inman Saunders defeated Mrs. Moody by default.

Second Flight.

Mrs. E. Richardson defeated Miss M. Banker, 4-3.
Mrs. G. C. Jones defeated Miss Mary Moody, 3-1.
Mrs. Hunt defeated Mrs. Smart, 1 up.
Mrs. R. L. Walker defeated Mrs. D. Rogers, 1 up.
Miss Richardson defeated Mrs. Bidwell, 1 up (10 holes).
Miss T. Erskine defeated Miss M. Hallman by default.
Miss Ansley defeated Miss Margaret Nutting, 4-3.
Mrs. J. C. Staten defeated Mrs. Maude by default.

The pairings for play in the first round of the defeated eight is:

Miss E. Erskine v. Mrs. E. P. Ansley.
Mrs. Michael Hoke v. Mrs. M. M. Carlin.
Mrs. Logan Bleckley v. Mrs. L. H. Hines.
Miss Katherine Bleckley v. Mrs. Moody.

FLORIDA SHOOT

Comes to a Close—Southern Event Starts Today.

Jacksonville, Fla., October 5.—The Florida-state rifle competition matches, preliminary events to the National Rifle tournament, came to a close here today. Tomorrow morning the matches of the Southern Rifle association will begin, and will be followed on October 8 with the matches of the National Rifle association and the National matches proper, which begin October 15.

The principal event of today's shooting, the 1,000-yard match, was won by J. T. Lawless, color sergeant, Ninth Massachusetts infantry, with a score of 97. H. L. Smith, second lieutenant United States Marine corps, finished second, being one point behind the winner.

The 600-yard match went to W. H. Hyde, captain Third Tennessee infantry, who made a score of 50. C. C. Porter, sergeant company B, First North Carolina infantry, and J. T. Lawless, color sergeant Ninth Massachusetts infantry, tied for second place, and will shoot the tie off tomorrow.

A. P. Lane, New York Athletic club, won the pistol match with a score of 736. H. L. Stadie, first sergeant company L, Thirtieth United States infantry, won the broze medal for second place with a score of 702. The ranges in this match were 15, 25, 50 and 75 yards.

DICK JEMISON CALLS SERIES PERSONALLY

Insuring Fans Accurate Discription—Parlors on Viaduct Way.

Dick Jemison will call the world's series baseball game in person at his place, 1½ Viaduct place. This insures Atlanta fans of the most up-to-date, accurate and complete description of the games available.

Every ball, every strike, every run, hit and error and, in fact, everything that can happen in a ball game will be called from the platform, direct from a leased wire to Phillies park in Philadelphia and Braves' field in Boston.

Every play will also be recorded on the most up-to-date scoreboard in the entire south, on which the individual records of each player during the game will be recorded and the totals carried on. In brief, the box score will be made right before your eyes.

The fans can feel perfectly at home at Dick Jemison's place. They can smoke, chew, take off their coats, stand up and yell; in other words, act at the baseball parlors just like they would at the ball park.

The first game is Friday, October 8. It starts at 1 o'clock, Atlanta time. The hall will be opened at 12:30 o'clock and the incidental details before the actual play will be called to local fans. The admission fee is 50 cents.

Daily prizes on rain checks will be awarded to the fans. Save your rain checks and you may win a premium.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, October 5.—(Special.)—From the high point of today you can look backward at the low point last Friday and see 140 points difference, and this difference has made some traders dizzy.

Yesterday's crop condition report was responsible for half of this rather sudden advance, and if what that report says of the crop is true very much higher prices may be looked for without serious setback. The contract market is a thoroughly liquidated one.

We are, however, at a point where the resistance offered by spot cotton and the readjustment of arbitrage values may momentarily supply our market with contracts and a halting digesting market should follow for a time at least.

Liverpool is only 100 to 120 points higher than our prices on the spring and summer months. The 6 per cent tare which Liverpool deducts and which we do not calls for 85 points of this difference. Selling the exchange at $4.70 for £1 sterling adds another 26 to 28 points. Freight and marine insurance plus the preliminary charges on this side will add 50 points more and the lighterage and unloading charges plus the commissions on the other side brings the total difference between the two markets to about 185 to 200 points if our grades were the same as Liverpool grades. Even allowing for grade difference it is apparent either we are 50 points too high or Liverpool 50 points too low. This difference must in time be reconciled. Liverpool will probably finally recognize the crop deficiency not only in Amerca, but also in India and Egypt.

The momentary barrier against further rapid advance is that we have nearly reached that point when the farmers get 12½ cents at home; that price has always been a "Mecca" for the producer. The willingness to take that figure is so pronounced that we really think a very large portion of the cotton ginned will have to be absorbed before we progress through that price. We thing, however, the farmer is entrenched at that figure and will obstinately demand his price and therefore no great declines can come in spots, and without a decline in spots the contract market will not yield. Liverpool due 2 lower, January-February 7.15½.

RENSKORF, LYONS & CO.

New York, October 5.—(Special.)—Europe became more excited than America over the text of the government crop estimate, and when they received advices of frost in Oklahoma and rain in the valley they sent large buying orders. It was the execution of these orders which carried January to 13.20 and March to 13.17; as throughout the day it was thought that many of the old-time bulls were liquidating their holdings because they thought the advance had been too rapid. It was also noticed in the last two hours that Wall street houses were selling apparently because of the reaction in the stock market.

The weather is certainly bad enough to maintain prices at a slightly lower level, but if speculation has received a check we might easily fall back some half a cent, as many people are now buying who were against the market for the past six months.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, October 5.—(Special.)—Southern buying continued in good volume today and prices advanced to new high levels. Fear of frost in parts of North Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi encouraged demand and made sellers cautious. The feature of the market is the steady buying on the part of the south.

JAY, BOND & CO.

New York, October 5.—(Special.)—The cotton market today reached new high levels for the season. January sold at 13.19, March 13.47, May 13.68. Liquidation occurred in heavy volume throughout the last two hours of the session, bringing about twenty points from the top. While our belief in higher prices ultimately is unchanged, we wish to impress upon the minds of our friends that in the big markets at present existing it is inadvisable to follow the advance too far. Profit taking on strong markets such as today affords opportunity for reinvestment on declines.

America's short crop this season is instructive as to what can be done without forcing nature. With little or no assistance possible from fertilizers next year's yield will likely revert to the size of those of the early nineties. Meantime, uncertainties of this character add to the possibilities of the situation. The planter is apparently content to continue in the role of a disinterested looker-on. Trade interests, more vitally interested and facing the danger reflected in two short crops, are more concerned. Our views favor continuation of the upward course of prices with the natural reactions incident to big markets. We believe cotton and cotton seed oil bought on moderate declines will ultimately show large profits. Big swings up and down are probable, but the pendulum in our opinion will finally reach the extreme of highest prices seen in the past few years.

Good butcher pigs, 100 to 140, $7.75 to $8.00.

Light pigs, 80 to 100, $7.25 to $7.50.

Heavy rough hogs, 200 to 300, $6.50 to $7.25.

Above quotations apply to cornfed hogs. Mast and peanut-fattened, 1½ to 2c under.

Hog receipts nominal. Market higher.

Cattle receipts light, market quiet. A few cars of good fleshy Tennessee heifers and steers were in the yards this week and were sold promptly to the Atlanta packer at top prices. Aside from these, the run was rather of the ordinary types, mixed grades meeting with slow demand. Commission firms report considerable inquiries for desirable feeding steers, regardless of the recent advance in cotton seed meal and hulls. However, the feeding steers so far placed in this territory is considerably short of the number engaged for corresponding date of 1914.

ALL CHICAGO LIST ON STRONG UPSWING

Hungry, Warring Europe and Lessened Pig Squealing Cause Scramble on the Provision Stands.

Chicago, October 5.—Wall street buying was a generally accepted reason for a material upturn today in the wheat market. Only about half of the advance was held, however, the close being unsettled. Net gains amounted to 1⅛, with December at 99⅞ and May at 100¼. Others leading staples all finished higher—corn up ⅛@⅜ to ¾; oats ⅛@¼ to ½, and provisions 12½ to 85.

Belief developed strongly that eastern stock market speculators were investing in wheat a large percentage of their profits. The fact that on the ensuing bulge the realizing sales turned out to be quick and heavy did not seem to disturb the opinion, and was ascribed chiefly to pressure of Canadian wheat at Minneapolis and to gossip that the Canadian duty on shipments to the United States soon would be repealed.

Falling off in receipts northwest and here as well gave the bulls an advantage that was made the most of, especially during the first half of the day. Another source of strength lay in the news that Liverpool quotations were on the advance, British millers reported nervous and the estimates of the French crop shortage raised to 100,000,000 bushels. On the other hand, the difficulty of obtaining freight room to Europe seemed to be more than ever acute.

Corn values rose mainly as a result of freezing temperatures accompanied by some reports of crop damage. Bear leaders, however, were aggressive sellers on the advance.

Oats followed corn. Shorts were the best buyers.

Provisions jumped in consequence of reports of immense transactions in cash meats and lard and because of higher prices on hogs. It was said 10,000 tierces of lard had been sold for shipment to Europe and that two million pounds of bellies had also been disposed of.

Coffee.

New York, October 5.—While business was by no means general, the market for coffee futures was a little more active today with indications that the continued steadiness of Brazil and a somewhat smaller increase in the world's visible statement for September than expected, had attracted a little Wall street interest. The market opened at an advance of 2 to 4 points and closed at a net gain of 6 to 10 points, with March selling at 6.47 and May 6.56 in the late trading. Sales, 11,750.

Spot, steady; Rio No. 7, 6⅞; Santos No. 4, 9c. Cost and freight offers were reported to be a shade higher with quotations for Santos 4s ranging from about 8.60 to 8.75, although it is reported that Brazil sold higher yesterday at 8.40. Sales of Rio 7s were also reported late yesterday afternoon at 6.60 English and 6.65 American credits.

Rio exchange was higher with the Rio market unchanged and Santos 50 reis higher. The world's visible supply increased 336,601 bags for the month of September, making the visible on October 1, 9,855,475, compared with 10,062,870 last year.

That the cotton planter, with a flat-footed "swagger" and in a calm and positive manner, is posting cotton values, and setting a pace in which the deferred month delivery markets must follow—is plainly and unmistakably shown by the capers of the Atlanta spot cotton market Tuesday.

While the net rises for the day in the New York and New Orleans future markets were barely over 20 points, the Atlanta spot market made a clear gain of ⅜ of a cent, or 37 points—to 12½ cents—and judging recent events, unless some plausible news bearing on crop conditions come to light, the Liverpool, New York and New Orleans markets will follow in the southern spot market trend.

New York Gain Is 16 to 23 Points.

New York, October 5.—An additional advance of approximately $2 a bale reflected a further scaling down of crop estimates in the cotton market this morning, but attracted heavy realizing as well as some selling for a reaction under which about half the gains were lost, with the close steady, 16 to 23 points net higher, January closing at 12.98.

The market opened firm at an advance of 24 to 37 points in response to higher Liverpool cables, bullish overnight advices from southern spot markets, the unfavorable showing of the weather map, which indicated more or less general rains and a light frost at Oklahoma City and predictions of a bullish weekly report tomorrow. There was a good deal of realizing and considerable Liverpool selling around the initial figures, and prices soon reacted 9 or 10 points from the best, but there was a very big outside demand while the foreign selling diminished after the close abroad and the market here soon developed increased firmness on frost predictions and bullish weather details. Many of yesterday's sellers for profits, appeared to be replacing their cotton, while all houses with southern connections were well supplied with buying orders and prices during the middle of the morning sold 40 to 44 points net higher, or up to 13.00 for December, 13.20 for January, and 13.47 for March.

This represented an advance of fully $6.50 per bale from the low level of last Friday and realizing again became very heavy, particularly from Wall street sources which may have been influenced by the easier ruling of the stock market. Buying continued active and there were many predictions around the ring of ultimately much higher values, but the decline carried December off to 12.79, January to 12.96 and March to 13.23, or some 20 to 24 points under the high level of the morning during the late session.

Liverpool cabled that the south was showing more anxiety to sell and that the advance had checked consumption, but there seemed very little hedge selling in the local market and there were rumors that spinners were buying December on the early advance.

Exports today were 18,405 bales, making 700,482 so far this season. Port receipts, 69,431. United States port stocks, 1,042,867.

Spot cotton steady; middling uplands 12.75; sales, 1,725 bales.

New Orleans Rise 18 to 21 Points.

New Orleans, La., October 5.—While the cotton market made a decided show of strength in the early trading today, rising 42 points on the strongest months to new high levels for the season, the tone became unsettled in the afternoon and about half of the gain was lost. The close was at a net advance of 18 to 21 points. Heavy trading featured the session; at times realizing sales from the long side were large.

Around the opening prices were about 30 points up on good cables, rains in the belt and bullish expressions based on yesterday's unfavorable bureau reports. Reports of frost in the western belt and the forecast of frost tonight in several cotton states increased the demand, which was met by only scanty offerings. January was sent to 13.08 and December threatened the 13-cent mark. Little sign of a reaction was to be seen until reports were received telling of breaks in the stock market. Errors in quotations on French rentes increased the selling and prices were sent down something more than a dollar a bale. Late in the session renewed support was offered and the close was steady, 2 to 8 points up from the lowest of the day.

Many Speculative and Artificial Rises Shown by Unnerving Effect of Reported Accident to an American War Vessel.

New York, October 5.—Reactionary tendencies were uppermost throughout today's stock market session, despite some new high records in the war shares. It was this particular group, however, which manifested increased heaviness, and their susceptibility to adverse influences demonstrated anew the artificial and speculative character of the sensational movements in this class of stocks.

Selling of many of these issues was resumed at the outset, the decline being a continuation of yesterday's late operations. The early decline was soon checked, mainly as a result of the improvement shown by railways, but even this maneuver failed of effect, a second decline setting in before noon.

During the mid-session, prices were again lifted, in some instances rising over their first recovery, but all these gains were wiped out later on the circulation of reports of an accident to an American war vessel. This caused another and more hurried scramble to unload such issues as Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, General Electric, Westinghouse, Bethlehem Steel, Continental Can and several of the motor shares breaking 5 to 15 points from their high quotations of the previous hour and bringing the average level well below yesterday's final prices.

When it was learned that the accident consisted of nothing more than a minor explosion on a torpedo boat in home waters, prices immediately retrieved a part of their loss, only to go still lower in the final hour. The selling of that period was accelerated by activity on the part of the short interest, which recognized the hollow tone of the market and made the most of the situation.

Liquidation was most extensive in the later dealings and support was lukewarm at best. The outcome resulted in the closing of numerous marginal accounts and to that degree the market now presents a stronger technical aspect.

Among the new records made while prices were at their best were Bethlehem Steel up 5½ to 400½, General Motors 5 to 365 and Continental Can 11¼ to 127.

Bonds were irregular to heavy with fresh foreign selling. Total sales, par value aggregated $3,820,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 5.—Cotton seed oil advanced 22 to 30 points early today on renewed buying encouraged by the pronounced strength in lard and cotton, but later had a sharp setback under heavy profit taking. Final prices, however, were still 2 to 11 points above the previous close. Tenders were 500 barrels. Total sales, 39,500 barrels.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE OF INTRODUCTION OF ORDINANCE FOR PAVING STREET.

Notice is hereby given that at the meeting of the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, held on the 4th day of October, 1915, petition of property owners and others was introduced, read and referred to the street committee, asking for the paving (or repaving) of Rawson street, between Windsor street and Whitehall terrace, with tar macadam, and that an ordinance based on said petition will be introduced and considered at the meeting of the general council to be held at 3 o'clock p. m. on the 18th day of October, 1915, being one of the regular sessions of the general council.

If the ordinance is passed, said portion of said street will be repaved and the cost thereof distributed and collected as provided for by the charter of the city of Atlanta—only one-third thereof being paid out of the city treasury and the remaining two-thirds raised by assessment from abutting property and its owners. If there is a street railroad on the street its proportion of the cost will be first deducted and the city pay one-third and abutting property and its owners the remaining two-thirds.

At the council meeting aforesaid opportunity will be given all persons interested to advocate or oppose the passage of the proposed paving ordinance.

WALTER C. TAYLOR, City Clerk.

Notice is hereby given that at the meeting of the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta, held on the 4th day of October, 1915, an ordinance was introduced and read providing for the construction of a sewer along and in Niles street from Tilden street west to flush tank. The general character, material and size of said sewer are as follows: 400 lineal feet of 8-inch vitrified pipe, 120 lineal feet of 6-inch vitrified pipe, 1 brick manhole. Said sewer to be built at an estimated cost of $330. Said ordinance for the construction of said sewer may be adopted at the meeting of the mayor and general council of said city of Atlanta, to be held Monday, October 18, 1915, at 3 o'clock p. m., in the city council chamber, or at any subsequent meeting of said mayor and general council. Said sewer is to be built in accordance with the act amending the charter of said city, assessing 70 cents per lineal foot upon the property and estates respectively abutting on said sewer, on each side of said sewer.

WALTER C. TAYLOR, City Clerk.

GREAT CROWDS HEAR PAYNE

Workmen Interested in Noted Visitor's Lectures.

Our Faulty Methods of Living Produce Ill Health, He Says.

A. G. Payne, the man who created such favorable impression in the big Southern and Western cities with his theories and medicine, has attracted immense gatherings in Atlanta, where the famous philanthropist has delivered a series of lectures in connection with his introduction of Sylax, the medicine that is producing such remarkable results in this city, probably thirty or thirty-five thousand have heard Payne talk during the past three weeks. Payne seems to draw his crowds from all walks of life, during the course of a recent lecture he said: "Possibly the most prevalent and distressing condition known to we Americans is chronic catarrh of the mucous membranes. Catarrh of the stomach is the most frequent cause of dyspepsia, and catarrhal conditions in the nose and throat lead to inevitable deafness. Show me a man whose hearing is affected and I will show you a man who is suffering from catarrh.

"Frequently," continued Mr. Payne, "the lungs become diseased by extension of catarrhal inflammation by the way of the bronchial tubes to the lung substances. The mental and physical state of chronic catarrh sufferers is, indeed, very unfortunate, and it is really surprising to know what an immense number of people are suffering from this almost universal malady when they think something else is wrong with them."

Payne then enumerated the numerous symptoms of catarrh, such as an offensive breath, constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, droppings into the throat, frequent sneezing, watery eyes, dull headache, depression of spirits, nervousness, unsound digestion, lost appetite and easy to contract cold. Payne then told how the faulty methods of living produce rheumatism and kidney trouble, how the body, when the organs falter or fail, fill up with poisons generated by one's own system, he explained how Sylax, the miraculous medicine, would combat these conditions, as it had done amongst thousands of sufferers in the South and West, as well as many hundreds in Atlanta who have already used Sylax and found it an unfailing source of benefit. "Sylax," he said, "builds up the constitution, weakened by disease and mental and physical overwork, quickens convalescence, and is a sound source of comfort to the aged and infirm."

Mr. Payne continues to meet hundreds daily at Coursey & Munn's drug store, corner Marietta and Broad streets, where the sale for his medicines is now tremendous.—(adv.)

YELLOW JACKETS FEAR DAVIDSON SATURDAY

Reported That Tarheels Have Strong Eleven That Will Make Locals Hustle.

The Tech Yellow Jackets are working with might and main in preparation for the game with Davidson Saturday at Grant filed. They are working harder for an early game than they have worked in years.

Reports from Davidson and the result of the game with Clemson on Saturday indicate that the Tarheels have a team that will make the Jackets extend themselves to their utmost to be returned the winners.

All the Jackets came out of Saturday's game with Mercer in good shape and are hammering away at their work this week like the championship depended on it. The Jackets realize that the eyes of the south are on them this season and they are not going to be asleep at the switch.

PHILLIES' MANAGER, HIS TWIRLERS AND THEIR HISTORIES

Patrick John Moran.

Born February 7, 1876, in Fitchburg, Mass. Played amateur baseball around his home town until 1897, when he was signed by the Lyons club, of the New York State league. Played with that club until it disbanded in 1898 and finished with the Cortland, N. Y., club in that year. In 1899 and 1900 was with the Montreal club, of the Eastern league. Became the property of the Boston Nationals in 1901 via the purchase route. Was traded to the Chicago Nationals in 1905 for Pfeiffer. Was sold to the Philadelphia Nationals in June, 1910, and has been with them since. Was appointed manager of the team in the spring of 1915 after Charles Doolin was deposed.

Grover Cleveland Alexander.

Born February 26, 1887, in St. Paul, Neb. First professional engagement was with Galesburg, Ill., team, in the Illinois-Michigan league, in 1909. Was drafted in 1910 by the Indianapolis team, of the American Association, and was turned over by them without a trial to the Syracuse club, of the New York State league. Was drafted by the Phillies at the end of the 1910 season. Is a right-hander.

Erskine Mayer.

Born January 16, 1891, in Atlanta, Ga. Made a great record as a college pitcher while with Georgia Tech in 1908 and 1909. Later in the summer of 1909 he pitched in the Fayetteville (N. C.) team, in the North Carolina league. The Atlanta, Southern league, team obtained him in the spring of 1911, but sent him to the Albany (Ga.) team, of the Georgia State league. In the spring of 1912 Atlanta recalled him and then sent him to the Portsmouth (Va.) team, in the Virginia league. The Phillies drafted him in the fall of 1912 and he became a regular in the spring of 1913. Is a right-hander.

Eppa Rixey, Jr.

Born in 1891 in Culpepper Courthouse, Va. Was the star pitcher of the University of Virginia club team. Was recommended to the Phillies by Umpire Rigler. Joined the Phillies in July, 1912. Is a left-hander and is 6 feet 5 inches tall.

Albert Wentworth Demaree.

Born September 8, 1887, in Quincy, Ill. Broke into professional baseball in 1908 with the Columbus, Miss., team and finished that season with the Newark, Miss., team. Started the 1909 season with Savannah, of the South Atlantic league, and later was sold to the Chattanooga team, of the Southern league. In 1911 he was traded to the Mobile team. In 1912, pitching for Mobile, he won 25 out of 35 games and led the league. In 1913 he was purchased by the New York Giants and made a great showing, but as his work fell off in 1914, he was traded to the Phillies, together with Stock and Adams, in exchange for Hans Lobert. Is a right-hander.

George Chalmers.

Born in 1880 in New York city. Played semi-professional ball for several years in and around New York. First real professional engagement was with the Scranton, Pa., team. There he pitched in 1909 and 1910. In 1911 was drafted by the Phillies and remained with them until near the end of 1914 season. Then he was let out and was signed by the New York Giants. Went to the spring training camp of the Giants and just at the start of he 1915 season McGraw gave him his unconditional release. The Phillies were playing in New York at the time and Pat Moran offered him a job and Chalmers accepted. Is a right-hander.

Benjamin Tincup.

Is a full-blooded Cherokee Indian and was born in Sherman, Texas, about twenty-five years ago. Pitched with semi-professional teams in the west and was secured by the Phillies in 1913. Is a right-hander.

Wheat is profitably grown in Lower California.

Complete Qualifying Round in Rotary Club Golf Tourney Today

The qualifying round in the Rotary club golf tournament will be completed with the conclusion of today's play over the East Lake course of the Atlanta Athletic club, Tuesday and Wednesday being allotted for the qualifying rounds.

The tourney will run for three weeks, October 22 being set as the date on which the final matches will be played.

VOLLEY BALL LEAGUE.

Fast Games Scheduled for Tonight at Y. M. C. A.

The Wednesday Night Volley Ball league will give its sixth exhibition for the benefit of the public tonight. There will be something interesting for the spectators every minute of play. At 8 o'clock the first games will start with the teams opposing as follows: Hodges v. Walraven and Buckle v. Atkinson. Waters v. Ball and Boykin v. Smith will play the next frames. Boykin and Buckle appear to have a slight edge on their opponents. Captain Waters now has his team in good shape and he has recovered from his injured knee.

The standing of the teams follow:

Ball	.800
Boykin	.800
Buckle	.600
Hodges	.400
Smith	.400
Walraven	.400
Waters	.400
Atkinson	.200

WORLD'S SERIES GAMES DETAIL AT BIJOU

Arrangements have been completed for detailing the world's series ball games at the Bijou theater, beginning Friday. A leased wire has been secured and expert callers will be on hand to announce these most interesting games play by play. Games will start promptly at 1 o'clock, Atlanta time, and the doors will be open at 12:30 o'clock for the accommodation of the fans. Rain checks will be issued and are good for the next game in case of rain.

At the conclusion of each day's game the regular matinee of the Jewell-Kelly Stock company will be given and those in attendance are entitled to remain for the matinee without extra charge.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

The Atlanta Real Estate Exchange held its first meeting since the close of last spring yesterday with a luncheon at the Winecoff hotel, which was well attended and a great deal of interest manifested. The details of the proceedings of this meeting are found elsewhere in these columns.

Briefly told, the exchange resolved on the following courses of action:

1. Central and public parks, a committee of fifteen to be appointed to go before council for a park appropriation.

2. Public comfort for downtown districts, especially for women, and

3. Indorsement of the Georgia Harvest Festival and the pledging of the exchange's support to make this affair a success.

East Lake Election.

The town of East Lake has set next Saturday as election day. Votes will be cast for mayor and five councilmen. The candidates, who have no opposition, are: W. J. Tilson, for mayor, and W. R. Beck, Coke Davis, A. S. Hook, A. O. Marbut and R. B. Mountcastle, for council.

As soon as the weather permits work will begin on street improvements that were outlined last summer.

Recent Reformatory Inmate in Trouble Again for Stealing

"Caught in the act" will be the title of a feature trial before Recorder Johnson in police matinee this afternoon. Roy Coleman, of 266 Pulliam street, will be tried for stripping the automobile accessories from the car of A. J. Demedici, of LaGrange, Ga., while it was standing in front of the residence of Harry Hannah, 350 McCloud avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Demedici opened the front door of his friend's house in time to see Coleman at work.

With Coleman at the time was a friend who happened to be on the side of the car away from its irate owner and in a better position to get away.

Mr. Demedici held young Coleman at the point of a pistol until Call Officers Austin and Darby had arrived to take him in custody.

Coleman was recently paroled from the state reformatory.
